EMPEROR TO HOLD PARLEY ON PROTESTS

American Ambassador Grew has delivered strong written representations to the foreign office against the machine-gunning of the sinking American gunboat by Japanese forces.

It was understood that the repre-

LOYALISTS IN NEW VICTORIES

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontiers, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The fall of the ancient walled city of Teruel, spearhead of the Nationalist salient in Eastern Spain, is "inevitable," the Loyalist government asserted today.

Bitter street fighting broke out in the city after the Loyalists completed its encirclement, according to government radio broadcasts. The heaviest fighting was said to be taking place in a cemetery.

Control Railroad
The government held all roads from the city and took over control of the railroad lines running to Zaragoza, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's stronghold in Eastern Spain from where he planned to open a crushing, "final" offensive against remaining Loyalist territory.

The Loyalist offensive, engineered with unusual secrecy, so surprised the Nationalists that it may virtually have broken up Franco's intended "big push," according to military experts at the border.

It began three days ago, according to official government reports.

60,000 Defenders
There was no accurate information concerning the strength of the attacking Loyalist forces but it was understood that 60,000 Nationalist troops were attempting to defend the city which has a civil population of 30,000.

Reviewing the offensive during the last three days, the government said that their troops had passed an encircled Castravlo, a few miles southeast of Teruel, then occupied Villastar, on the main road to Cuenca and Madrid, 138 miles away, and then swept into Campillo, a few miles west of Teruel.

DUNCAN, Ariz., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A tire blowout was blamed today for an automobile accident near here late yesterday that killed Miss Anna Woods, 40, and injured seriously Mrs. Maude Nelson, 34, both of Santa Ana, Tex.

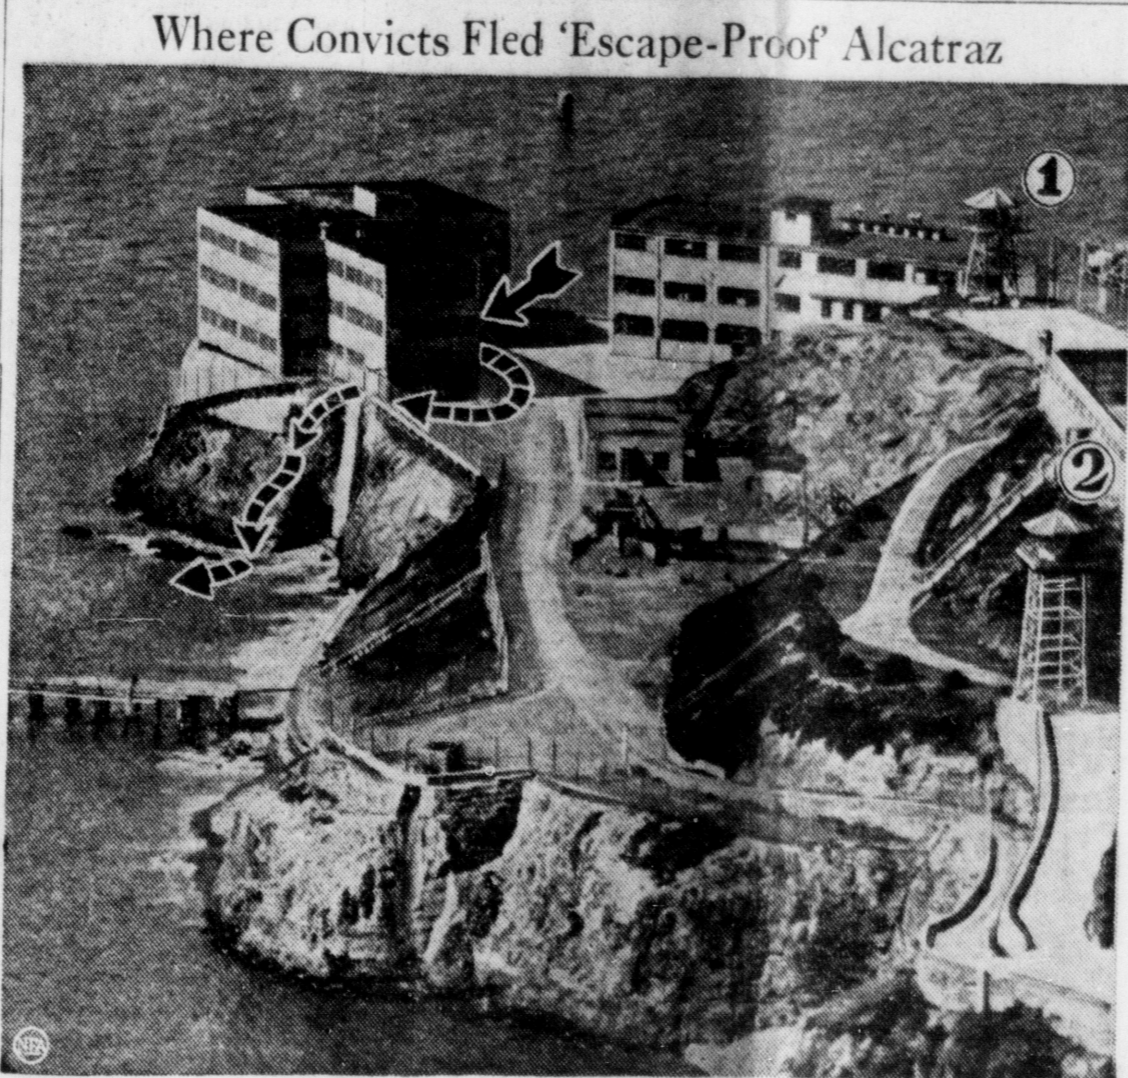

The car, carrying four Santa Ana persons to California for the Christmas holidays, went out of control and overturned into a ditch, investigators reported.

Miss Woods reportedly tried to leap from the car as it careened off the highway and was pinned beneath the wreckage. Mrs. Nelson suffered severe internal injuries and cuts and bruises.

TAKE EXAMINATIONS

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Alando J. Ballantyne and Daniel B. Genung Jr., University of Arizona seniors, both of Tucson, leave tonight for San Francisco to take district examinations as Rhodes scholarship candidates.

Ballantyne is a medical student and son of a university faculty member. Genung formerly was editor of the college newspaper.

Aerial-closure of the west tip of Alcatraz Island, Uncle Sam's escape proof penal institution in San Francisco Bay where two Oklahoma criminals made the first break under cover of a dense fog. The two, Ralph Roe and Theodore Cole, broke a window in the inside of the tire repair shop, skirted the building, broke a fence and leaped to a ledge below. From there they made their way to the water's edge and apparently plunged into the swift flowing tidewater. Fog was so dense that armed guards in towers one and two, could not see the escaping felons.

Alcatraz Fugitives Are Placed On Government's "Hunted List"

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Fugitives from Alcatraz prison were on the government's list of hunted men today and it was Warden James A. Johnston's premise that they would remain there forever, because they probably drowned while swimming for shore and were carried away to sea.

Coast Guard cutters were withdrawn from the search and the soldiers' patrol along the coast line waned. It remained for the police and department of justice to find the men or leave them for dead.

They were slippery Oklahoma outlaws, Theodore Cole and Robert Roe, and they were the first to break out of the federal prison island in San Francisco Bay since it was taken over by the justice department in 1934. The government considered it escape-proof and criminals called it "The Rock," which came to mean in their vernacular that it was a place where hope was abandoned.

Just Two Chances
Beyond the slight possibility that the two men could have swum the mile and a half or more to shore through the rippling currents after they broke a lock on a high wire fence and sprang to a rock ledge near the water's edge during the escape.

BOARD TO CONSIDER WARDEN'S POLICIES

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Prison policies of Warden Clyde L. Plummer were scheduled for discussion today as the state board of prison directors met in its regular monthly session.

Judge T. N. Harvey of Bakersfield, board chairman, indicated members possibly would make definite rulings on some of the new warden's policies which have drawn considerable criticism.

Today's session was enlivened by a rumor that Director Frank Sykes, scheduled to leave the board January 12 when his term expires, may be reappointed by Gov. Frank E. Merriam, despite the governor's previous statements that he would not name Sykes to the board again.

Former Official Of Kansas Called

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The body of William J. Fitzgerald, 77, former lieutenant governor of Kansas, was to be sent to Dodge City for burial today following his death here last night.

A pioneer of early-day Kansas, Fitzgerald long was prominent in Republican politics in that state and served as lieutenant governor from 1905 to 1910. He also served two terms in the Kansas legislature following his first election in 1896.

'Spade Work' Only Result Of Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The special session, while failing to complete action on President Roosevelt's legislative program, accomplished "spade work" that should enable congress to adjourn its regular session around April 15, Speaker William B. Bankhead said today.

Bankhead said the net result of the special session, heading swiftly toward an adjournment next week, was satisfactory, despite the jettisoning of the New Deal's wage and hour bill and the powerful rebellion that slowed action on the farm bill.

Conference Planned
Meanwhile, President Roosevelt planned to meet his legislative leaders on Monday—two days before the tentative Dec. 22 adjournment date—to canvass the entire congressional picture. He summoned Vice President John N. Garner, Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, D. Tex., and Bankhead for the conference.

The farm measure, paramount item on President Roosevelt's legislative program, went to conference today—almost certainly too late to permit its completion in time to be sent to the White House before Christmas.

With the two major struggles over agriculture and wages and hours out of the way, the house turned

GUARDSMEN DIE IN AUTO CRASH

LODI, Cal., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Six National Guardsmen joy-riding after a pre-Christmas banquet at Stockton, were killed near here early today when the car in which they were riding plummeted off Valley Spring road and crashed into a giant tree.

The victims were: Joseph E. Green, 20; David G. Conard Jr., 21; James B. Plumb, 27; Raymond Carl Meador, 21; Alton D. Bray, all of Stockton, and Gale Borden Le-walle, 22, of Ileton.

The accident, exact cause of which was unknown, occurred one mile east of Clements, which is directly east of Lodi in San Joaquin county.

Car Torn Apart
Police said the large heavy sedan in which the six were riding crashed with such terrific force that "it tore the car apart."

One body, that of Plumb, was hurled a distance of 40 feet. Plumb, a sergeant in the National Guard, was named as the driver of the car. Highway patrolmen said a heavy fog covered the area.

Coroner's helpers said the six had been dead for nearly an hour before the accident was discovered by a Stockton basketball coach, Gene Stagner, returning from a game at a nearby town.

Stagner notified the constable at Oxford. The constable, in turn, notified Lodi police and the state highway patrol at Stockton.

PATIENTS SAVED AS HOSPITAL DESTROYED

ANTHONY, Kan., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Fifty patients, borne from a burning hospital so quickly and orderly that most of them did not realize the danger, were attended today in private homes of the town, none the worse for their experience.

The Galloway hospital, only one in town, was swept by fire that caused $11,000 damage.

The fire started in the basement and spread slowly. All patients were out of the building before the smoke had reached all the rooms.

The staff, including 10 nurses, hastened to their duties without a word when they first detected the smoke. Four babies less than a week old were among the patients, but there were no emergency cases, and no operations had been scheduled for the day.

HELD FOR THEFT

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Calvin Johnson, Visalia, Cal., automobile salesman, was in Riverside county jail today on suspicion of resisting an officer after an asserted attempt to escape arrest on a petty theft charge last night. He had a slight run wound from an altercation with Deputy Sheriff R. A. Smith, arresting officer.

Noted Scientist Called by Death

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Dr. Richard H. Jaffe, 48, one of the nation's outstanding pathologists, died last night—a martyr to the fight against a mysterious malady which has claimed the lives of 13 new-born babies in a Chicago hospital.

The Vienna-born scientist had been working night and day to classify the strange infantile diarrhea which broke out in St. Elizabeth hospital's nursery two weeks ago. He died after a heart attack.

FIND 32 GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A jury of farmers and tradesmen today found 36 men guilty of using a bombing conspiracy as a weapon in a struggle between rival unions of coal miners.

The verdict, ending five weeks trial in U. S. district court, was "guilty" on three counts with interfering with foreign and interstate commerce, bombing of mines and trains carrying coal and obstructing the U. S. mails by bombing.

Most of the defendants were members of the Progressive Miners of America, rebel offshoot of John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers of America.

"Bombed Mines"
The government alleged they bombed mines holding contracts with the U. M. W. and blew up trains carrying U. M. W.-mined coal.

Maximum penalty is four years in prison and fines totaling $20,000. The verdict climaxed a five-year "reign of terror" in the Illinois coal fields, marked by killing of more than 50 persons in riots, street fighting, and the bombing of homes and other property. The National Guard was called out on several occasions.

EMPLOYE SOUGHT IN "PAYROLL MYSTERY"

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Robert Montague, 46, whom Edward Rohde befriended and then gave a job, was being sought by police today for questioning in connection with the disappearance of a $1553 payroll from Rohde's plumbing plant.

Rohde told police he first befriended Montague two years ago when he allowed the man to live at a mountain cabin for some time after picking him up on the highway. Later Montague disappeared after telling Rohde he was "going to Arizona."

Nothing was heard of him until a few weeks ago when he returned and Rohde gave him a job.

The payroll disappeared from Rohde's office while a clerk was waiting on a customer. Montague also was missing, police said.

NEWTON D. BAKER SUFFERS ATTACK

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Newton D. Baker, wartime secretary of war under President Woodrow Wilson and internationally known corporation attorney, was treated today for a recurrence of the heart condition he suffered in mid-summer.

A physician and nurse were called suddenly to Baker's home this morning. Mrs. Baker told the United Press that "Mr. Baker has suffered another slight thrombosis."

Baker spent several days last July in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., recuperating from a cerebral thrombosis.

Baker relinquished recently trusteeships he had held with two large universities, Ohio State and Western Reserve. He is 66.

DAVE BECK'S ORGANIZING PLAN RAPPED

Hurling defiance at the threat of Dave Beck to unionize truck drivers hauling agricultural produce, 30 leaders of Southern California farm organizations, including Holmes Bishop of Santa Ana, president of the Associated Farmers of California, met yesterday at Riverside.

With unanimous approval of the various organizations represented, including the Associated Farmers, members of yesterday's meeting voted to stand united in a battle to fight the "closed shop" threat of the union organizers and what they termed as "the unlawful activity of the teamsters' union in its at-

COURT DECIDES LABOR ISSUES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Three San Francisco superior court decisions described as of vital significance in present-day labor disputes were being studied here today by both capital and labor, with indications they may be appealed to higher courts.

The decisions, all handed down by Superior Judge Maurice T. Dol-ling, were:

1. That picketing of a shop where no strike exists is legal if the picketing is "peaceful and truthful." In this decision Judge Doling denied an injunction sought by 32 unorganized automobile salesmen against picketing of the Howard Motor company. The salesmen contended their "right to work" was hampered by pickets protesting the salesmen's refusal to join a union.

Injunction Dissolved
2. That unincorporated unions cannot bequeath contracts or agreements, except to the extent that the individual members, collectively, establish a collective bargaining right. This decision dissolved a temporary injunction of a cleaning plant where an AFL union later affiliated with the CIO Judge Doling ruled that the employees as a collective bargaining unit had a right to change affiliation without legal penalty.

4. That existing law does not clearly define the rights of the courts to settle jurisdictional disputes between rival unions. This decision involved the cleaning plant dispute between the AFL and CIO which Judge Doling urged be settled by arbitration.

"The case," Judge Doling said, "indicates the necessity for some statutory system for adjustment of labor disputes in California."

tempts to deny the farmers the rights to the freedom of the highways and markets, and consumers their rights to food supplies.

Bishop Lauds Determination
Bishop, in speaking to the assembly said:

"I congratulate you men for your determination to face this issue squarely. In meeting this threat, you are not only protecting your rights as citizens but you are also protecting your rights as citizens to do your part in giving the children of our cities their customary food supply."

"I feel certain that you will find every branch of agriculture ready to back you to the fullest."

Hugh Osborne, of Imperial Valley, state vice president of the Associated Farmers of California, one of the speakers at yesterday's meeting, said, "For one, I don't propose to be told by any union leader that I can't take my produce to market—I don't think any of you will."

Another Defy Hurdle
The question is whether we shall be dictated to by Dave Beck and the unions and told what we shall do with our produce or whether as free American citizens we will tell them."

Following is the resolution adopted at the assembly:

"Whereas—It has arrogantly stated to the Associated Farmers of Southern California by a representative of the Teamsters' Union that, 'we have already organized 5000 milk workers, we can very easily take milk from Los Angeles down here if it comes to a showdown,' and

Threat to Truckers
"Whereas, this threat jeopardizes not only our ability to sell our products but the consumers opportunity to buy them, and

"Whereas, a representative of the Teamsters' Union also stated to operators of trucks hauling hay that, 'we have certain measures. If you want to operate with nonunion drivers, that is your prerogative. But if trucks turn over, gentlemen, that just happens,' and

"Whereas, he further also gratuitously advised us that if we proposed to move our products we should protect ourselves with cargo insurance, and

One Point at Issue
"Whereas, the statement quoted above as they appeared in the public press were in answer to the farmers' demands that they be allowed to retain that freedom of movement over the public highways guaranteed every citizen by our Constitution, and that this was the only point at issue, namely, that there be no unlawful and violent interference with movement of trucks from farm to market, and

"Whereas, the Teamsters' Union representative saw fit to answer the farmers with the cowardly threat to deny to the children of Los Angeles the milk that is a prime essential to their very existence, and

To Defend Rights
"Whereas, the farmers of California fully realize the seriousness of this threat and the brutal callousness of the Teamsters' Union machine in its bid for power and the collection of more monthly dues, and

"Whereas, we believe it to be humanly impossible for reasonable human beings to sit idly by and watch the accomplishment of their purpose, and

"Whereas, we, as farmers, will exert all our power to prevent the accomplishment of that purpose and to defend our own right to the freedom of the highways, and we have no intention whatever of paying an extra road tax to anyone in order to retain that right, therefore;

Purposes Set Forth
"Be it further resolved: that our purposes in this action are two in number:

"First, and most important, to insure to the children of the Los Angeles metropolitan area a continued supply of milk.

"Second—to stop at this point the unlawful and vicious activities of the Teamsters' Union in its attempt to deny to the farmers their right to freedom of the highways and of the markets, and the consumer the right to his food supply.

"And be it further resolved: that it be made plain to all the people and particularly to the mothers of the Los Angeles metropolitan area that we can guarantee to deliver our products only to the various distributing points, and that we have every confidence and feel assured that they will assist us in our purpose to maintain the freedom of the highways and the freedom of the highways by insisting on delivery from there."

sentations held the machine-gunning to have been the most serious phase of the Japanese attack in which the Panay was sunk by air-plane bombs.

Most Serious Aspect
The assumption here was that the United States emphasized the machine-gunning of the Panay by surface boats as the most serious single aspect of the incident because while aviators might plead that they could not see the American flags flying on the ship and painted-for guidance of aircraft—on her deck and sides, there could be no question as to men on land or water seeing them.

Admiral Recalled
It was asserted in reliable quarters today that Rear Admiral Tetsu Mitsuami, chief of aerial operations in Japan and that he would at once give specific reports to the government regarding the orders which had been issued to aviators by the Japanese high command.

Mitsuami was recalled to Tokyo as the man responsible for the attack by the aviators under him and it was said that disciplinary action would be taken against him.

REVEAL PANAY BOARDED BY NIPPONS
SHANGHAI, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Japanese troops stopped the United States gunboat Panay under threat of artillery fire four hours before Japanese airplanes sank her, it was disclosed today.

Armed Japanese troops boarded the Panay under protection of a field gun which was trained on her and questioned Lieut. Comdr. James J. Hughes, her commanding officer.

It was announced today that the United States cruiser Augusta, flagship of Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, American navy commander-in-chief in Chinese waters, would leave for Manila tomorrow on the first tide.

The details of this missing factor in the story of the Panay were disclosed today by Weldon James, chief of the United Press bureau at Nanking, who was aboard the Panay. James wrote the story at the time, but Lieut. Comdr. Hughes, fearing that any message containing Japanese troop activities might aid the Chinese and violate American neutrality, thought it best not to permit the dispatch to be transmitted.

The Panay's radio, the only means of communication available, four hours later Hughes was a casualty and his ship was sinking under a combined bombing and machine-gun attack by Japanese aviators.

Panay Halted
It was at 9:40 a. m. Sunday, James disclosed, that the Panay was stopped 22 miles above Nanking.

A field gun was trained on her from shore. A boarding party of about 20 Japanese troops went out into the river and went alongside. As a lieutenant and a guard of two men went aboard, the affixed bayonets to their rifles. The lieutenant's two guards fixed their bayonets as they stood on the deck of the American warship, James reported.

The Japanese lieutenant questioned Lieut. Comdr. Hughes. James reported, as to his nationality and destination. Then the Panay was permitted to proceed—to her death.

Police Say Their Trouble Was Over-Confidence

This is how three men look who have just been arrested on charges of buncing a visiting Englishman out of $30,000. Jack Staver, above, is obviously and completely disgusted, and he can't be quoted.

Something seems to have made John Adams slightly ill. May be it was the $100,000 bond set by the judge who heard the three men arraigned. Adams holds his head in his hands, would rather be left alone.

Frank Wilson is unhappy too, hides his face and seems to have been through a few bad minutes. The arrests were made in Los Angeles where British Harry Millichip, police said, fell for an ancient racing hoax.

Continued Search
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Federal Prison Director James V. Bennett said today that the hunt for Ted Cole and Ralph Cole, Oklahoma desperadoes who broke from Alcatraz island prison will continue "until the pair is found dead or alive."

"We will continue the hunt until we are convinced the men are dead or until they are captured," Bennett said.

"We are investigating all reports and rumors and I am keeping in communication with Warden James A. Johnston. The coast guard still is searching along the shore of San Francisco bay."

It does not seem how they could have made the swim to land," Bennett said.

Bennett revealed that hundreds of reports were pouring in to officers from persons who thought they had definite clues.

Dark Glasses Create Hollywood Spectacle

BY HENRY McEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD — If all the dark glasses worn in Hollywood were placed end to end they would make quite a spectacle, and I trust this pun won't discourage you from reading further because I intend to make the rest of this article noble and enlightening.

When you first come to Hollywood you get the impression that it is a town entirely made up of (1) persons who momentarily expect the sun to go into its complete eclipse, (2) retired baseball players who have weak eyes from playing the sunfield, or, (3) persons whose eyes got the worst of it in a fight.

This is because everybody wears dark glasses. Beautiful blondes and bewhiskered beggars wear them. So do clubmen and Chinamen, tycoons and touts, debutantes and dressmakers. Even the babies wear them, and give you quite a shock when they peek from out the folds of their perambulators with their infant-sized horn rims.

I figured at first that the famed California sun must be the cause of so many dark glasses. But this theory was exploded by the first rainy day. The citizens continued to wear them, even in a downpour, when the sun was hidden by clouds as dark as Jesse James' grammar school department record.

Being afraid of getting arrested for indecent exposure, I bought a pair of glasses. It took me the better part of a week to get accustomed to them. In the first place, I have always been frightened by the dark, and my lenses were so black they could only have been ground from two old axes of spades.

I bought a flashlight and a walking stick and was able to get around fairly nicely by the third day. As soon as I was able to navigate the streets I launched an investigation (by

C. I. O. Blocks Road
In one disturbance, where three men including two constables' deputies were shot, five C. I. O. men blocked a road with a car and fought with 300 non-strikers who were leaving the plant in an auto caravan under armed escort.

Each side accused the other of the shooting.

Those wounded were Don Musine, 30, and Bob Scott, 29, engineers, and Russell Williams, 28, a by-stander. All were struck in the legs with buckshot and were not seriously hurt.

Two men who gave their names as Andrew Shackelford and William Foley, appeared at the Independence Hospital for treatment of gunshot wounds. They said they were Ford workers but would not say how they were shot.

Marvin West, 32, was taken to a hospital by police with shotgun wounds in his arms and legs. He said he passed a caravan of Ford workers and one man leaped from a car and shot him without cause.

CAROL
Dorothy L. Sayers
The ox said to the ass, said he, all on a Christmas night:

"Do you hear the pipe of the shepherd, a-whistling over the hill? That is the angel's music they play for their delight."

"Glory to God in the highest and peace upon earth, goodwill . . . Nowell, nowell, my masters, God lieth low in stall, And the poor laboring ox was here before you all."

The ass said to the ox, said he, all on Christmas day: "Do you hear the golden brides come clinking out of the east? These are the three wise Magi that ride from far away To Bethlehem in Jewry to have their love increased . . . Nowell, nowell, my masters, God lieth low in stall, And the poor, foolish ass was here before you all."

CHRISTMAS CAROL
J. D. C. Pellow

Oh, brother Juniper, come out and play: Men should be gay on this holy-day. Lo, brother Sun laughing there in the sky, All so merrily, clear and high. Blithe and merry are men and beast all, In field and stall, in church and in hall, Oh, little brother, let the fat men sneer, We have good cheer, this day of the year. Oh, brother Juniper, leave 'em their scorn, Christ is born to us this bright morn.

SPADE WORK IS SESSION RESULT

to consideration of the housing bill, designed to initiate a national building boom.

Ranks Divided
Ranks of the Democratic majority in the house were bitterly divided after the fight which killed the wage-hour bill. Proponents of the measure, who blasted it out of the rules committee by petition only to meet defeat on the floor, were pessimistic. Bankhead refused to predict the future of such legislation, but saw cause for some satisfaction in the work of the turbulent special session.

"Its net result will be regarded by some—and is—disappointing," the speaker said. "But I don't regard it that way."

"We made as much headway on a bill of the importance of the farm bill as could be expected. I feel on the whole we have made substantial progress on a program looking toward an early adjournment next year—perhaps April 15."

In the senate, however, leaders of the faction, who smashed the wage-hour bill through to passage in the regular session earlier this year, viewed the defeat of the measure in the house bitterly.

Sen. Sherman Minton, D., Ind., said the action "makes it look doubtful that such a measure will be passed in my lifetime." Sen. Homer Bone, D., Wash., denounced Democrats "elected for a New Deal who went the other way." He warned the defeat of the wage-hour bill may result in eventual return to power of a Republican majority, taking precedence over Democrats split into warring conservative and progressive factions.

U. S. AIR CORPS IS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

—Type for type, planes of the U.S. Army air corps are equal to those of any possible adversary and superior to most, Maj. Gen. Oscar Westover, chief of the army air corps, said today.

Writing in the Air corps news letter, Westover said that the air corps has accomplished its objective in keeping abreast of experimentation and development to insure that its planes, "type for type, are at least the equal of those found elsewhere in the hands of any possible adversary."

"I feel the army can justly say that there is no other air force in existence which exceeds it in training, in individual and unit efficiency," he said. "There may be larger ones, but none is better. Size for size, it compares more than favorably with the best."

SURVEY SHOWS VITAL BEARING ON S. A. AREAS

Attention of Orange county farmers today was directed to a special chart that illustrates the problem presented by the increase of agricultural production and decline of agricultural exports, which today was received by John H. Burnett, secretary of the Orange county agricultural conservation association.

"All farmers in this county are urged to consider the export problem in relation to the large surplus of farm products," Burnett declared.

Far From Vague

"When we see figures about exports, we usually think of them as something so big and far away that they do not immediately affect us. But right here in our own county it is to be remembered that we have the following crops which are directly exported in considerable quantities or are vitally affected by the export situation: Grapefruit, Oranges, Walnuts, Lemons, Beans, Barley and others."

"The agricultural conservation committee of this County is bearing in mind local phases of agriculture which are related to this fundamental problem," Burnett pointed out.

WOMEN JOIN IN PLEA FOR PEACE

Women of the auxiliary to Ernest L. Kellogg Post No. 1680, Veterans of Foreign Wars, last night joined the drive for signatures to petitions urging Congress to keep America out of war.

At the meeting of the women's organization petitions were given members who started today securing signatures of citizens expressing their sentiments against war.

1,000 Sign Petitions
While the auxiliary was starting on its share of the drive, members of Ernest L. Kellogg Post reported that they have already secured more than 1000 signatures to similar petitions, according to Commander James Sullivan.

Sullivan said today that it is impossible to tell exactly how many signatures have been obtained as all members have not reported. Reports submitted last night, however, revealed that more than 1000 signatures had been obtained.

Circulation of the petitions is a part of a nation-wide campaign launched by the Veterans of Foreign Wars urging the administration to apply policies designed to keep America out of war supported by a national defense program adequate to protect this country and people.

Sullivan said that the 5000 units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are all circulating similar petitions through their memberships and various other civic, patriotic, religious and fraternal groups.

"CAPITALIZATION" APPRAISAL IS TOPIC OF WOMAN REALTOR

Use of the "capitalization" method of appraisal of real estate, with a check by the "summation" and "comparison" methods will bring about the fairest appraisal of urban property, declared Miss Lottie Crawford of San Diego, in a talk before the Santa Ana Realty board yesterday at the Rossmore cafe.

Miss Crawford, the only woman of the people living there, Miss member of the National Institute of Appraisers, outlined a scale of "sales multiples" under the capitalization method of arriving at an appraisal figure using 80 times the monthly rent in the poorer neighborhoods; 100 times the monthly rent in better districts, and 125 times the monthly rent in the best territory.

FOG BLAMED IN ONE S. A. CRASH

Fog was blamed last night for an accident in front of 1735 West Fifth street, in which a coupe owned and operated by Ray Holbeck, 838 North Van Ness, lost in a "clash" with a truck and semi-trailer which was loaded with 18 tons of hay.

The truck was being backed up to a feed store at the location, when the coupe struck the front end of the truck and was badly damaged. The truck was in charge of L. C. Martin, Hynes. The truck was slightly damaged.

Auto Runs Wild

An unusual accident occurred at First and Main yesterday afternoon when a car driven by LeRoy Umphenour, 216 East Central, was towing a wrecked model T Ford which was being steered by John D. McInnes, 2061-2 North Garvey, going north on Main street. Umphenour turned east onto First street, and McInnes reportedly lost control of the Ford, the Ford colliding with a car in charge of Donovan Rowe, 316-A East First, who was stopped, awaiting a signal change. None was injured.

C. A. LaFlam, 312 North Ross, reported a car bearing license 7-X-1783, collided with his and the driver failed to stop. The license is registered to Dee Robertson, Harbor City, police learned. Officers F. L. Grouard, William Nielsen, Francis Norton, W. H. Heard and Burnette Lane handled the investigations of the three accidents.

CONDITION OF LEACH SHOWS LITTLE IMPROVEMENT TODAY

Detective Sergeant Hunter Leach who has charged several times during conscious moments at St. Joseph hospital, that the prisoner he was returning to Santa Ana from Tucson, Ariz., by train, had slugged him, was a little improved at the hospital today, his physician, Dr. James Farrage, said he believed.

Dr. Dorrell Dickerson, noted Los Angeles brain specialist, who operated upon Leach Thursday with assistance of Dr. Farrage, to remove two blood clots, and Dr. Farrage said the clots could have been caused by a slugging or even a severe slap on the head with the open hand.

Had Heroic Role

They said the clots did not prove Leach was struck by the prisoner, John J. Madden, 25, Camden, N. J., brought here to face charges of issuing fictitious checks several weeks ago.

Madden was given a heroic role when first returned as it seemed apparent he had taken care of Leach on part of the trip. Local police, however, planned to question him further on Leach's charge and to contact railroad officials to obtain their version of the situation.

Await Health Return

Dr. Dickerson returned to Santa Ana yesterday to examine Leach further and is scheduled to be here again today. For many days, he has been in a semiconscious condition but seemed to have "snapped out of it" considerably today. Doctors and fellow officers are waiting until Leach becomes rational again before questioning him about his and Madden's trip from Tucson.

All bids for construction of the new chamber of commerce building were rejected this morning by the chamber's building committee, according to Fred Merker, chairman. Eight bids had been submitted.

The committee voted to return all bids and checks to the bidders and at the same time, return the specifications to the architects.

The specifications were returned for suggested means to reduce construction cost to come within funds available for erection of the building.

It is understood that an amount in the neighborhood of $4500 is available at this time for this work. The building is to be erected on property leased from the Y. M. C. A. and facing the Hall of Records on Church street. The property has been taken for a 15-year period with the chamber of commerce to pay all taxes and assessments but no rent for the period of the lease. At the end of 15 years the building will revert to the Y. M. C. A. and a new lease will be executed.

CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE ON STABLE BASIS, SURVEY SHOWS

A State-wide survey being conducted among the realty boards and brokers under auspices of the California Real Estate Association at suggestion of the Department of Commerce reveals a strong stability in real estate conditions, steadiness in rentals, a small margin of residential vacancy and optimism over the new housing plan, according to preliminary returns. This is announced by G. D. Robertson, chairman of the State association's real estate blue book committee.

The survey includes cities in all sections of the state. By far the most of the cities report a residential vacancy situation of less than 2 per cent.

In those same communities a total of 5192 single-family residences were built this year, compared with 4192 last year, a gain of 25 per cent.

CAPE COD STYLE UTILIZED FOR NEW HOME PLAN

Area: 1123 square feet.

Cost: $4800.

A small home typifying the Cape Cod colonial style of architecture has been selected from the special display of small houses now being held at the California House and Garden Exhibition, 5900 Wilshire Boulevard, east of Fairfax avenue.

The house can be built for $4800, including a two-car garage. If redesigned, using the modern treatment, the cost would be approximately $4250. Both estimated costs include the architect's fee.

Furthering privacy, the plan has the living-room located at the rear of the house overlooking the garden and well protected from being viewed from the street. A fireplace and plenty of windows make this an unusually charming and livable room.

The entry is provided with a roomy coat closet. It gives access to two small halls which lead directly to every room in the house. At the left of the entrance a short hall opens into the two bedrooms and the bathroom, while directly ahead a longer hall leads to the kitchen, dining-room and living-room. This arrangement provides maximum privacy and accessibility in an efficient, space-saving plan.

The kitchen is the model type planned for labor saving. The equipment is properly routed to minimize labor in the preparation and serving of meals and a generous amount of storage and cupboard space is provided. An alcove to house the home laundry equipment also is included.

Both bedrooms are large and adjoining them are roomy wardrobe closets. The bathroom is small, but by the use of a glass enclosure over the tub includes a shower bath.

Heating for the entire house is provided by a forced-air heating unit located in a small closet off the central hall, which also includes space for the water heater.

The exterior of the house is of wood siding with a wood shingle roof. The steep roof, interesting window treatment and large chimney are in keeping with the architectural style and enhance the charm of the design.

QUESTIONS Before the House

Choosing a Site

One of the vital questions that confront the prospective home builder is the choice of a proper site. On this question may hinge the type of house to be chosen.

If the site is to be a town lot, hoods. One must choose a lot in a neighborhood that will be congenial to him and his family, and such lot must be in a neighborhood of houses similar in value to the one he proposes building. It is commonly understood that a lot should represent some 20 per cent of the total cost of house and lot; that is, a $4000 house should be built on a lot worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $1000.

It is preferable to overspend somewhat on the lot, rather than to underspend. Don't think you are saving money when you build on too cheap a lot.

Zoning and building restrictions are real friends to the home builder. They govern such matters as the encroachment of business into residential districts, the exclusion of objectionable races as neighbors, etc.

The matter of frontage is to be considered. Buy as wide a lot as you can. Fifty-five feet may cost ten per cent more than fifty feet of frontage, but will be worth vastly more in satisfaction to you and in the resale value of your home, and sixty feet will be even better proportionately.

The living habits of different families vary greatly. For instance, some enjoy their porch and garden space much more than others. The winter sun in our climate does a real heating job and much satisfaction is to be had from a south porch well protected from the breeze, or from a big expanse of glass in the south window of the house.

East light is prized for the kitchen and breakfast room. Early risers enjoy the morning sun in their bedrooms. Those who sleep late will do well to put their bedrooms to the west.

Older fashion called for east or west living room frontage—today south frontage is equally valued by many.

There are matters of real importance too involved for adequate consideration in this space. When the time comes for you to consider them be sure you get really competent advice; such as comes from an architect, building and loan agency, or Federal Housing Administration Loan authority.

PRICES ON DECLINE

While prices of plumbing and heating products in general are today 10 per cent below the average for the last 12 years, some plumbing fixtures show an even greater contrast, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau. The current price of sanitary cast iron enameled plumbing fixtures, for instance, is 27 per cent under the base price for 1926 as established by the United States Department of Labor.

LOANS REVEAL GAIN IN HOME BUILDING WORK

Construction of new houses caused some 8800 families to borrow $27,830,000 from savings, building and loan associations in October, in spite of the slump in construction activity generally, according to estimates of the United States Building and Loan League.

Loans made for this purpose were lowest in volume since February, 1936, was 20 per cent, in line with the 18 per cent decrease in value of all contracts awarded for residential building when the two months were compared.

$97,858,500 In Loans
Loans made by the associations for all purposes in October totaled $97,858,500, according to the league's findings, bringing the disbursement for the first 10 months up over the billion dollar mark, which is $84,532,200 more than for the first 10 months of 1936.

Morton Rodfish, executive vice president of the league, stated that loans for repair and modernization are holding up at about the level which has been customary since June, the general business recession seeming to have affected this field of credit less than any other in which the savings are interested. The total for the first 10 months has been about $63,640,000, and only five of these months accounted for more than October.

Refinancing Loans
Demonstrating that the recent weeks' business reaction has not yet been reflected in any enlarged demand for refinancing existing mortgage obligations is the figure on refinancing loans in October. The savings and loan associations have witnessed a steady decline in the demand for such loans since June and their proportion of the total disbursement has been getting continually smaller since the first of 1936. The continuation of this, Rodfish indicated, is one of the more hopeful signs in the October statistics.

Loans with which people purchase already-existing properties continued to furnish the heaviest demand for the associations' money, just as they have done since the beginning of the year.

The league estimates that about 13,400 people borrowed to buy homes in October, as compared with 14,500 in September and 15,900 the same month a year ago. Average size of the purchase—chase mortgages was down about $200 comparing October last year and October of 1937.

NEW BUILDING STYLE
Science and engineering are creating a new architectural style international in scope, Bergman S. Letzler, Louisville architect, declared in a paper prepared for the Kentucky Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

VOLUME OF LOANS SHOWS HUGE INCREASE DURING LAST YEAR

Officials of the Santa Ana Building and Loan and First Federal Savings and Loan associations, said today that members of the Federal Home Loan Bank system established a new record for volume of loans for construction, purchase and refinancing of homes this year. Both the Santa Ana associations are members of the Federal Home Loan Bank system.

According to their reports membership organizations of the system have made a greater volume of loans during the first 10 months of 1937 than they made during the entire year of 1936. This announcement was made following a report submitted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Record to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

In the Twelfth district, which includes the two Santa Ana associations, home financing institutions of the savings and loan type loaned a total of $59,728,000 during the first 10 months of the year.

Analysis of the total reveals that $12,615,000 was loaned for home purchase; $29,303,000 for home construction; $11,861,000 for refinancing; $1,550,000 for reconditioning, and $4,399,000 for other purposes.

Between Jan. 1, last and October 31, member institutions in the nation had loaned a total of $590,225,000 as compared with $627,623,000 loaned by them during the entire year of 1936. Total October loans in each of the Federal Home Loan Bank districts declined somewhat over September, or remained practically constant except for the area down the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

HOME BUILT IN ENGLISH STYLE

From England have been brought architectural ideas that have entered into construction of one of the handsome new homes in the Bel-Air area.

This typically English-style eighteen-room residence has been constructed on a corner site of one and an eighth wooded acres at Fontenelle Way and Stone Canyon Road for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Ahern. Mr. Ahern is a well-known cartoonist.

Curt A. Arents, contractor and builder, who constructed the residence, expects to have the dwelling ready for occupancy in a few days.

While traveling in Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Ahern gave considerable study to the architecture of England.

This new residence is attractively built on three floor levels with separate wings for the guest apartments and the servants' quarters.

By careful planning it was possible to construct the house without sacrificing a single tree. Those old and stately trees give the estate the semblance of the grounds of an old English castle.

Nearly 9 Million Is Spent In L. A.

Los Angeles' interest in modernization has been greater by far during the first eleven months of 1937, in point of number of building permits issued for such work than during any entire year back to 1933.

And from the standpoint of total expenditures for modernization and renovation programs, the first eleven months this year have outranked every twelve-month period of the past five years with the single exception only of 1936.

These facts are contained in a report issued yesterday by R. A. Rowan & Co., realty brokers, comprising an analysis of statistics furnished by Supt. Makutchan of the city department of building and safety.

The report shows that in the first eleven months of 1937 a total of 15,268 individual permits calling for expenditure of $8,944,992 for additions and alterations to frame and masonry buildings has been authorized by the city building department.

Contractors Plan Housing Congress

Under the auspices of the Building Contractors' Association, plans are being formulated for a housing congress with exhibits, to be held in Los Angeles within the next ninety days. It is announced by President-elect William H. Evans of the association.

The purpose of the congress is to demonstrate the difference between 1938 and 1938 in home building and owning, it was explained. Cost of materials rose rapidly in 1937, but, nevertheless, they are still 10 per cent less than in pre-depression days.

Special frost-proof closets are available for use in unheated buildings. Inasmuch as the valve for these fixtures is placed below the frost line, they cannot freeze even in severe below zero temperature.

THE PAYOFF

By HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

NEW YORK—The biggest mistake in connection with the fight at the Garden the other night wasn't made by Harry Thomas, who was knocked down for the sixth time and stopped with only six seconds of the eighth round remaining.

The Minnesota heavyweight did it almost to capitalize on a tremendous opportunity, and was paid $300.

The gross error of the evening, in the minds of trained boxing men, must be charged to John Roxborough, Julian Black, and of Jack Blackburn, handlers of Joe Louis.

It wasn't difficult for them to guess what was going to happen, and it did Louis no good to actually see Max Schmeling chop down a powerful opponent much as he chopped down the Brown Bomber himself.

Louis admits that he is a bit zany about what happened to him when he mistook Schmeling for a rank sucker 18 months ago. Badly hurt early in the going, the Negro probably wasn't exactly sure as to just what dropped on his head.

Up until the other night, Louis might have gone along kidding himself that it was all an accident which couldn't happen again. After all, a young fellow with a punch like his should be able to dispose of a plodding bloke who will be crowding 22 when they meet again.

But such a mental analysis of the Schmeling case will not work from now on.

What Louis saw was a perfectly conditioned Schmeling who after 18 months' layoff was able to thread a needle with as fine and straight a right hand as you ever saw.

Louis sat at the ringside immobile and impassive throughout the first five frames, watching for the right hand that smashed him into insensibility in June, 1936.

Schmeling seldom missed with it, even while feeling his way through-out the first five rounds. It must have been consoling to Louis when it landed and nothing much transpired.

But I would have liked to have read Louis' thoughts when the ferocious Frankfurter started to unlimber in the sixth.

It goes without saying that Schmeling's performance against Thomas was highly satisfactory. The Pretzel looked great for a chap who had been on the sidelines for a year and a half.

It must be remembered however, that the contest was no barometer of Schmeling's speed. He was a fraction of a second swifter than the slow and swinging Thomas, and appeared speedy in comparison.

But the Black Uhlan will be faster next June. You can bank on that, and Louis had better keep his noggin out of the way.

The critics made much of Schmeling's protracted layoff, disregarding the fact that he long has thrived on inactivity. He repeatedly has permitted a year to lapse between engagements and on all save one occasion came back sharp enough to prevail. And there were extenuating circumstances the hot night which witnessed his being bounced around by Max Baer.

Der Moxie follows the training code carefully between starts. Schmeling may not be the Schmeling of 1936 when he again gets a belt at Louis, but he has demonstrated that he will be far from a hollow shell.

Louis had best be ready—and plenty good.

DONS OUST LONG BEACH, THEN LOSE

DOUBT IF BAER GETS SHOT AT LOUIS IN FEB.

BY LESLIE AVERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—"Buddy" Baer put Eddie Hogan away in three rounds, but whether he looked good enough to warrant a February shot at Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis was the question for Promoter Mike Jacobs today.

The young and bigger brother of former titleholder Maxie Baer, took a terrific tanning from the Waterbury, Conn. giant before he landed a right uppercut to the jaw that sent Hogan crashing to the canvas before 7000 spectators in Madison Square Garden last night. A hard straight puncher like Louis probably would rip Buddy to shreds, yet it is doubtful if any pugilist today could weather a blow such as felled Hogan.

Eddie missed a wild right and a left, coming up out of a half crouch, lifted his fist from his knees. His full 248 pounds was behind it when it crashed into Hogan's jaw. The Connecticut boy's head snapped back like his neck was broken, his knees buckled and he fell backward in a half twist, his shoulders hitting the canvas.

He became the toast of nations as, in match after match, he proved that a tennis ball could be hit at smoking speed and still be controlled.

He was the darling of the Lawn Tennis association. He was sent all over the world as its representative. Millionaires called him "Mac" and he called them "Charley" and "Ted" and "Joe."

He was a poor boy, Maurice McLaughlin. But he passed up any good jobs to keep the United States flag flying over the tennis courts of the world. He brushed aside a college education that the Davis Cup might be kept in this country.

Five times he stopped playing tennis and went to work, because his common sense told him he had a life to live and a future to make for himself.

Experience had taught him that when he returned from an all-conquering tennis tour that glamour wouldn't pay street car or taxi fares. Many times he had had to borrow transportation money to take him and his newspaper clippings home.

Once, when he was Davis Cup captain, and there was no player-writer rule, he had a chance to write three articles and make $300. It looked like a fortune to the California kid.

He was glassy-eyed as he rolled to his side at the count of two. At the count of four he had raised himself on elbows and one knee and was shaking his head desperately in attempt to clear it. Referee Jim Crowley wiped the resin off his gloves as he wobbled to his feet at eight.

Then Buddy was on him again, smashing rights and lefts to the jaw, and Hogan soon was down again. Hogan took another eight-count before his rubbery legs would bear his 222 1-2 pounds. When he went down the third time from another barrage of rights and lefts, the referee waved Buddy to his corner, mercifully stopping the bout.

Jacobs had promised the winner on the condition that his victory was "impressive"—the first of three warm-up bouts which the champion hopes to get before fighting Max Schmeling for the heavyweight crown in June. It would not be had to interpret Baer's devastating right as "too impressive" and much too dangerous to risk in the same ring with one of the principals of a potential million dollar fight. From usually reliable sources came reports that the elimination angle was used merely as a draw and that Louis would fight Jimmy Adamiak, Detroit's kayo artist, in February.

In the first of last night's two scheduled 10-round fights, Glenn Lee, hard-hitting Edison, Neb., middleweight, made Harry Balsamo, New York's belting brakeman, quit in nine rounds. Lee's bruising right and left hooks to the head, had blood streaming from four separate cuts on Harry's face. In the middle of the ninth Balsamo dropped his gloves and told Referee Johnny Arto he no longer could see through the curtain of blood.

Lee was fighting under a five pound weight handicap, scaling 154 3-4 to Balsamo's 159 1-2. The winner was promised a bout this winter with the victor of the Freddie Steele-Fred Apostoli match scheduled in January.

Oregon Searches For New Coach As Callison Quits

EUGENE, Ore.—The University of Oregon looked for a new football coach today after the resignation of Prince ("Pink") Callison.

His resignation was handed to the university athletic board yesterday and he said his action was final. The board accepted the resignation.

Callison's resignation followed a month of student clamor for his discharge. Three weeks ago, while Callison and his squad were in Southern California, students here organized the CCC-Can Coach Callison Club.

The university's football team, however, unanimously urged retention of Callison. Callison was discharged by the university in 1935 but was reinstated after he demanded a hearing.

Callison was a former Webfoot player, and was center on the team that lost to Harvard 7 to 6 in the Rose Bowl game of 1913.

Maurice McLaughlin Breaks Long Silence

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD — His hair used to be a flaming red, and he was known as the "California Comet." That was when he was 18 or thereabouts.

His hair is gray now, he's 47, and he's known simply as Maurice McLaughlin. All his glory and glamour are gone, and his dozens of silver cups, like Little Boy Blue's playthings, are covered with dust and rust.

He was an amateur tennis player in his day, the best amateur tennis player. He brought back the Davis Cup, as packed stands thrilled to the first cannonball service. He won National championships as, red hair sparkling in the sun, he broke away from tradition and pounded the ball with all his power.

He became the toast of nations as, in match after match, he proved that a tennis ball could be hit at smoking speed and still be controlled.

TUSTIN GOES INTO FINALS OF 400 CLASS

Tustin today defeated San Juan Capistrano, 26-14, and advanced into the final round of the 400-enrollment class of the Southern Counties basketball tournament at Huntington Beach.

The Tillers play for the championship in their division at 5:30 p. m., meeting the winner of a game between Puente and Garden Grove.

In another game today, Montebello beat Compton, 23-20.

Starting at 5:30 and continuing until the Major division teams collide at 8:15, four championship contests will be played tonight in the ninth annual Southern Counties interscholastic basketball tournament at Huntington Beach. Games are scheduled at 5:30, 6:45, 8 and 9:15.

Finalists will be determined after a series of semi-final contests this afternoon, involving some of the finest prep school quintets in Southern California.

Orange county teams won three of their five games yesterday and last night.

Santa Ana's Saints defeated Covina, 40-27, in the unlimited class and moved into today's semi-finals against Herbert Hoover of San Diego, the tournament favorite, which ousted Pasadena's Muir Tech, 47-28.

Orange's powerful five, choice in the 1500 group, eliminated Point Loma, 24-12, and qualified to play Excelsior, which won from Fullerton, 29-25.

Garden Grove conquered Claremont, 29-21, and next meets Puente, which vanquished Laguna Beach, 25-27 in an overtime period.

Santa Ana was supposed to play Santa Bernardino but the insiders refused to know nothing of the arrangement and did not show up. A last minute substitute, Covina fell by the wayside, 40-27, before Santa Ana's surprising offensive showing. It was the first victory of the season for the Saints who were sparked by Pete Partida, sub forward, who rang the bell for 17 points. Santa Ana led at the half, 17-12.

Fullerton Is Eliminated By L. A. 27 TO 21

After contributing a smashing upset by defeating Long Beach in the first round, Santa Ana's Dons today moved into the second round against Compton after unexpectedly ousting Long Beach, 32-24, in the first round of the Chaffey tournament by Compton, 53 to 30.

Perpetrators of one of the Southern California junior college tournament's two major upsets, Santa Ana's Dons today moved into the second round against Compton after unexpectedly ousting Long Beach, 32-24, in the first round of the Chaffey tournament by Compton, 53 to 30.

In another stunning reversal of fate, Los Angeles eliminated Fullerton's Yellowjackets, 27 to 21.

Long Beach and Fullerton last year played for the Southern California championship and had been seeded first and second in the pre-conference tournament being conducted by Chaffey Jaycee.

The finals will be played tonight at 8:45 after a 7:15 exhibition between the semifinal losers.

When the smoke cleared, the first round upsets had changed the entire set-up of the tournament. Instead of Long Beach, and Fullerton being ranked as favorites it was Los Angeles, Compton, Glendale, Riverside, Chaffey and Santa Ana who remained in the running.

The Dons who were slated to tackle Compton today with the survivor meeting Chaffey at 2:45 p. m. in the semi-finals. Several weeks ago the Dons took a 44-20 thrashing at the hands of Compton.

Charles (Chuck) Barrett with 10 points and Ted DeVetbiss with 9 were the chief point-getters for over Long Beach, the Dons in their surprise victory.

BOURBONS ACT TO ELIMINATE MONO-CONTROL

Reorganization of the Orange county unit, California Assembly of Democrats, started several weeks ago at Fullerton when Chenier Dale was unseated as chairman, will be completed at 7:30 p. m. Jan. 7, when members of the organization meet in the Santa Ana Junior college auditorium.

H. C. Head, new chairman of the organization, today announced the appointment of a committee to thoroughly revise by-laws of the organization and eliminate the possibility of "one-man control."

Members of the By-Laws committee are: George Tobias, Santa Ana, chairman; Claude Pullen, Corona del Mar; Orlan Sisson, Orange; Mary E. Coons, Anaheim; and Lloyd Verry, Fullerton.

Head said today that the January meeting will be devoted principally to the reorganization of the Assembly and other business. It is possible that there will be a short talk by some prominent Southern California Democrat.

Head issued a special invitation to all Democrats in the county to attend the conference, whether they are members of the Assembly or not.

When charges were hurled at the Fullerton meeting that "things have been done in this organization during the past 30 days that are a disgrace to Democracy and will kill the party in this county," it allowed to continue, the resolution providing for an immediate election of new officers was carried by the members.

FLOODS THREATEN PITTSBURGH AREA

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Disgorging a burden of ice as steady rains brought a rise all the way to its headwaters, the Allegheny river brought a new flood threat today to Pittsburgh where a crest of 27-feet-two feet above flood stage—is expected within 24 hours.

Heavy rains that pelted western Pennsylvania and high temperatures that melted snow brought sudden rises to streams and creeks throughout the district.

At Johnstown, Pa., the Stoney Creek river passed the 7-foot stage and was still rising. But weather observer Robert Tross believed colder weather this afternoon would halt the rain and check Stoney Creek River before it reached the flood stage, of 12-feet. It indicated the river may crest at about 9 feet.

"STUDENTS' DAY" SET FOR AIRPORT

Floyd Martin and Joe Hagar, aviation instructors at the Eddie Martin Airport, will stage a "Students' Day" competition tomorrow at the airport field in response to the enthusiasm shown by the students in a similar contest held two weeks ago.

Hagar and Martin will divide the group into two teams for various aerial contests with free flying time as reward for the winners.

Included in the competition will be a balloon-breaking contest with student pilots attempting to break gas-filled balloons with the propellers of their planes. Spot landings, and other maneuvers required in the government test for obtaining pilot licenses will be included in the competition.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Would it be a wise gift? You know sonny has always smashed up his Christmas toys the very first day."

UNIDENTIFIED ELDERLY WOMAN OVERJOYED AS $52 IS FOUND

Honestly, being its own reward, some Orange county resident should be in possession of much happiness, at least, today.

And another unidentified Orange county resident, an elderly woman, is overjoyed. Gloom had spread over her face completely when the elderly woman approached Officer H. C. Nelson on East Fourth street near a local store. "I have lost my purse and it contains all of the money I have for Christmas," she said. "There was $52 in my purse."

Questioning her, the officer went into a store where she had traded and talked to clerks. Yes, some honest citizen had found the purse with the money in it, had turned it over to store officials. They, in turn, handed it to the Salvation Army woman worker who was collecting Christmas funds in front of the store.

When the Salvation Army worker brought forth the purse, which she was holding until an owner could be found, the owner's face lightened as if a heavy load had been lifted from her shoulders. Everybody concerned went home happy.

PURITY OF FOOD URGED IN TALK

Dr. B. T. Woodward of Santa Ana was the guest speaker yesterday before the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, during an assembly of the students and also the dietitians and of Loma Linda sanitarium and hospital. His subject was "The United States Food and Drug Act, Its Relation to Practitioners of Medicine and Their Patients."

Interesting anecdotes of personal experiences in interpretation and enforcement of this law, at Washington, D. C., and in the federal courts elsewhere in the country, were told to the assembly.

Dr. Woodward strongly advised that physicians give more attention to the purity of food and drugs and to honesty of the labeling which presents these articles to the public.

Dr. Woodward was for years associated with the United States bureau of chemistry, bureau of animal industry, and the food and drug administration, at Washington. His duty was to judge the truth or falsity of claims for treatment of diseases with proprietary preparations, and development of prosecutions in the federal courts for violation of the pure food and drugs act.

DRIVERS FEATURE PARADE TO COURT

Six speeders, 21 parking violators, and two men charged with conducting businesses without proper licenses made up the procession to Judge J. G. Mitchell's city court yesterday.

Charles Davis, 807 West First street, was fined $12 for failure to comply with the city ordinance on licensing and Mr. S. W. Wallace, 1141-12 East Fourth street, $8 on a similar charge.

Speeders fined in court yesterday were: Marie L. Gray, 2024 Standard avenue, $5; Roy A. Corry, Route 4, Box 28, $3; Harry Moore, Huntington Beach, $8; Nicholas Lugania, 172 West Fourth street, $8; John W. Wilson, Anaheim, $15; and Kate Travis, Anaheim, $15.

Parking violators were fined $1 for each citation.

STEIN'S CAMERA Work Is Praised

Ivie Stein, well known Santa Ana business man and photographer was notified today that a photograph submitted by him to the Camera Pictorialist, national magazine, has been one of a group selected from 1,451 entries to be hung in a photographic exhibit at the Los Angeles museum during January. Entries came from 25 different countries.

The photograph was one of the prize winners in the Newport Harbor photographic contest held this fall and is entitled "Moonlight on Newport Bay." The exhibit will comprise 360 photographs from which prize winners will be selected. The display in which the photograph is to be placed is the 21st annual salon pictorial photographic exhibit to be staged at Los Angeles.

Weekly Citrus Review

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(UP)—A lower market prevailed on California citrus this week, the demand being only fair. Unfavorable weather conditions in marketing centers together with excessive supplies of oranges, forced prices to lower levels.

Shippers are expecting heavy sales next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, after which very little business is anticipated until after the holidays. Shippers are making plans to reduce shipments accordingly.

F. O. B. California quotations on fancy navel oranges on a basis of 22-25 to 25-28 and largest $2.15 to $2.25 on 1948 and 1949; $1.75 to $1.85 on 20-22; $1.65 to $1.75 on 23-25; and $1.40 to $1.50 on 26-28.

PETITIONS ASK FOR PORT HORN

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 18.—Fifty Newport Beach fishing boats were caught offshore last night in the heavy fog which blanketed the coast and were forced to anchor outside the harbor until 2 a. m.

This is the second time this year the fishing fleet has been caught in the fog. Three weeks ago 15 boats were caught in the fog, and lay off shore until it cleared early the next morning, many having to dump their loads of perishable fish.

At the present time a bell buoy serves to guide boats to the entrance of Newport harbor. During foggy weather there is very little wind and the water is smooth, consequently the bell does not ring loud or often enough so boat operators can determine their position. Boatmen run a heavy line trying to navigate the harbor entrance when visibility is so poor.

Petitions asking for the immediate installation of a fog horn at the harbor entrance addressed to Capt. H. W. Rhodes, superintendent of lighthouses in San Francisco, have been prepared by Howard F. McBain, local agent of the Deep Sea and Purse Seine Fishermen's union, and have been signed by over 100 boat-owners.

Orange County HALL OF FAME

Nominated for this week's Orange County Hall of Fame is Gladys Simpson Shafer, director of Santa Ana Community Players, and wife of Burr Shafer, whose vocation is in his music business but whose avocation is that of an artist.

Not just because Mrs. Shafer directed a fine cast of representative county folk in the smashing success of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," just a week ago, but because she has had innumerable successes to her credit in such work, in keeping the Players active even through the dark depression years, has she earned the plaudits of the community.

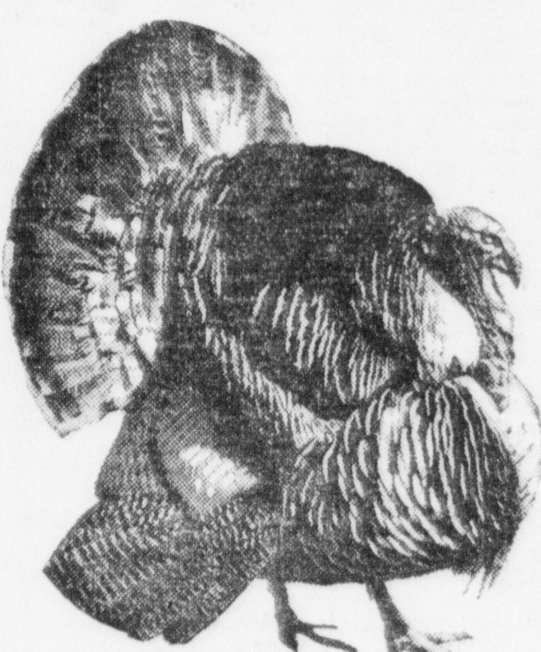

And in exemplification of the association's name, the director has provided countless one act plays with clever casts for entertainment of school, church and lodge groups, all at the expense of time and labor, and with no remuneration save the appreciation of the public.

LINDA BENTON—Heroin

CAPT. HARRYMORE TRENT—
Hero, flying "admiral".
MIRANDA TRENT—Barry-more's grandmother; a "strong woman."

Yesterday Linda and Captain Trent began to find a place for each other in their lives. Little did they know, however, of the heartbreak that lay ahead.

CHAPTER III
BARRY had not yet returned from bidding his friend, Lieutenant Rust, "good luck" at the airport when Linda came in after mailing Mrs. Trent's Christmas cards next day.

It was not until she was preparing, a little forlornly, to go downstairs after dinner for a long evening alone with old Miranda that she heard the front door bang, and then a lusty baritone lifted in joyful, if not too tuneful, song.

As if by magic, the old house again came young and alive and friendly.

When Linda went downstairs to the drawing room, Mrs. Trent was not in her customary seat. Only Captain Trent was in the room, wandering about, picking up things aimlessly and putting them down again. At sound of the opening of the door he wheeled.

"The Duchess has run out on us," he explained, his eyes half laughing, half caressing, on her startled ones. "Gone to spend the evening with a sick friend."

"Oh!" said Linda a little breathlessly. "Then I guess I'd better go and finish wrapping up her parcels."

But he was between her and the door, his eyes laughing down into hers.

"Oh, I say!" he protested. "You're not going to leave me high and dry, too, are you? At least you might read me a bedtime story. Reading aloud's your job, isn't it?"

"But after all," Linda said, laughing at his air of a wheedling schoolboy, "there's nothing in my contract with your grandmother about entertaining visiting celebrities."

"Bring the parcels down and we'll have them done in no time. . . . Aw, don't be so tight with yourself, Titania," he coaxed.

"How are we ever going to get acquainted if you keep yourself shut up behind a barbed-wire entanglement? Honest it's God-awful lonesome down here."

SUDDENLY Linda remembered how very lonely it would be upstairs, too. She hurried up and brought down the parcels.

"You may help me wrap these," she said, "but first your grandmother does want the antiques in that cabinet in the dining room dusted and rearranged before Christmas. You may come and watch me do those if you'll promise not to touch them."

"But never in all my days," Barry seemed inexplicably pleased—"have I known her to let anyone touch those sacred relics except herself and my own mother."

"Why, it was quite natural," Linda wished that he wouldn't hover there quite so close behind her. It made her fingers unsteady. "One day when her hands were bad with rheumatism, she showed me what she wanted done, and I've done it ever since."

"Of course it was your hands that did the trick with Grandmother," Barry was saying as they returned to the living room to wrap Christmas presents. "Did anyone ever tell you, Titania, that your hands are like soft white flowers? . . . Only much lovelier, because they're so much more alive."

"When you look at them, you can't help wondering if they can be as warm and sweet and tender as they look. . . . How they would feel if one held

Then, as all the air about her warmed and tingled, he drew her quickly toward him, and into his arms.

He took one of her small hands in his and pressed it against the lean, smooth, hard surface of his cheek—against his eyes, and against his lips. Then, as all the air about her warmed and tingled, he drew her quickly toward him, and into his arms.

It was much later that Barry said, laughing out delightedly, "I'll tell you what we'll do. Christmas morning I'll hang you up on a tree, all done up in tissue paper and silver trimmings to surprise the Duchess."

Linda shivered a little in the warm circle of his arms. All of a sudden she was remembering old Miranda Trent's face that evening when she had twitted her grandson with having "a new sweetheart in every port."

And this was Miranda Trent's house.

Even as Linda struggled to put her thoughts in order there came a sound of a cane on the polished floor outside, and she had barely time to free herself before the door opened, and the old lady stood on the threshold.

In his first startled movement Barry had struck a vessel of lustrous Chinese porcelain that stood on a table beside him. Snatching at it as it smashed into a dozen pieces, he cut a deep gash in his wrist.

As old Miranda grimly surveyed the wreck of her treasure, Barry caught a handkerchief from his pocket and stood like a sheepish schoolboy, trying to staunch the blood that dripped down his fingers.

Years ago, as a child in Paris, Linda had seen a hideous street accident; and since that time, try as she might, the sight of blood had turned her faint with horror. Now, though in that first moment she bent over Barry's wrist, trying with her own handkerchief to stop the red flow, she moaned in sick little gasps; and as the stain continued to spread, she wavered and sat down limply on a nearby chair.

"Come, come, Miss Benton!" old Miranda's voice tinkled like falling ice. "Fainting doesn't mend any broken bones. Please see if you can't control yourself and ring that bell."

"Oh, have a heart," Barry objected as Linda got up trembling. "I've seen hard-boiled marines turn green at sight of blood. We aren't all born to be top sergeants like you, you know."

"GET my first-aid kit, Jefferson," Mrs. Trent calmly directed as the old man appeared in answer to the bell, "and have Cicely bring some ice and a basin. And," finished the old lady, sweeping with her eyes the galaxy of indomitable Trent portraits that lined the walls, "if the women of this house had let their feelings get the better of them every time a crisis arose, you—Barrymore Trent—might not be here at this moment—nor, in all probability, the house, itself."

Cicely appeared, and old Miranda directed briskly, "Hold that basin here, Cicely. . . . Hold it, said, not wave it. . . . And Miss Benton," she added as Linda hesitated in the background, "if you must shake like a forest in a storm, please go elsewhere to do it."

Linda retreated with what dignity her shaking legs lent her. As she clung to the banisters in the hall outside, she heard Barry's voice in quick protest, and heard his grandmother snap, "Fiddlesticks! She'll be all right in a few minutes. So will this scratch of yours. . . . And that's more than I can say for my Ming jar."

No, thought Linda, by no standard could she ever measure up to the tradition of the Trent gentlewomen. . . . And did not dream how soon and how bitterly she was to be put to the test.

Jimmie Fidler ...in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18.—Idol Chatter: If all screen stars were as even-tempered as Joan Blondell, movie producers would live to a ripe age. The off-screen Hepburn is a creature of just two moods—ecstatic and irritable. Smile alike: Norma Shearer and Gladys Swarthout. His publicity men would like to pass it off as a boyish prank, but Errol Flynn did not endear himself to California sportsmen by shooting pheasants out of season while on location in the North.

Looks like the "gainer" in the battle for Tyrone Power's affections will be named Janet. Things I believe but cannot prove. That Joan Crawford's quest for "Tony" culture is costing her the color that made her a great star. They have nicknamed Arthur Treacher "Wimpy"—and he is that fond of hamburgers. When an actor drives by it is easy to tell his degree of success—the bigger the car, the lower he is on the Hollywood ladder. Possessor of Hollywood's most beautiful hands: Andrea Leeds.

The studious young lady, who sits in a far corner of the Fox cafe and reads during her lunch hour, is Gloria Stuart. Leaves from a family tree: Shirley Ross prides herself on being a descendant of John of Gaunt, father of King Henry IV—but there is nothing gaunt about her figure. Getting personal: I would like to see Sonja Henie frown now and then—just to break the monotony. Bet Binnie Barnes could best most Hollywood maids in a test of physical strength. Today's peevish actresses while telling interviewers about their love for great literature.

In the casting offices of every studio there is a filing cabinet set aside for "voices." When the music department needs a chorus for recording, the casting clerks merely run through the file, pick out the requisite number of basses, baritones, sopranos, tenors, and altos and give the cards to the telephone operators. Next day the "voices" report for work—eleven dollars a day for rehearsal, sixteen dollars and a half for recording. In their ranks are ex-opera stars, former vaudeville head-liners, farmers, shop girls, clerks, delivery boys—people from all walks of life. You never see their faces on the screen, but they are an important part of the picture business, nevertheless.

Two or three years ago a boy from the Deep South arrived in Hollywood, hounded the studios for work, and finally landed a steady salary as stand-in for one of Metro's biggest stars. The other day he announced that he would go home for his first visit—but instead of seeming joyful, he was obviously downcast by the prospect. Finally Myrna Loy learned why. Ever since his arrival here, he had been writing glowing letters about his great success; he reasoned that his visit would give away his bluff. Myrna promptly took matters in hand, and solicited the aid of Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, Madge Evans, and the company still man. When the stand-in goes back to the old-home town, he will be able to hold his head high, for if anyone questions his success, he can display stanzas proving his friendship with four of Hollywood's most famous ladies.

Stopped for a brief chat with Frank McHugh in his dressing room this morning, and collided head-on with a complex. While we were talking, someone rang his doorbell. Frank started as though he had been shot. What's the matter, it won't be, will it? I demanded. After a studio page had delivered his message, Frank turned to me with a laugh. "Funny thing," he said, "I can't get

Attractions At Local Theaters

Karloff, Vic McLaglen On State Screen

With Boris Karloff, famed character actor, "West of Shanghai," a thrilling melodrama of the oil fields in North China's interior, is scheduled for the State screen beginning tomorrow, along with "Professional Soldier," co-starring Victor McLaglen and Freddie Bartholomew.

Karloff's part in "West of Shanghai" is for from the "horror" things he's noted for. He's a Chinese bandit general, good-humored and sympathy-winning. Richard Cortez, Beverly Roberts and Sheila Bromley are in the cast of this picturesque film. It is claimed McLaglen portrays his greatest role since "What Price Glory" in "Professional Soldier." It is based upon a story by Damon Runyan; it's funny romantic and full of adventure. "Trees," a pictorial, also screens.

COMEDIES ON LOCAL SCREEN

"First Lady," with Kay Francis in a new, light, subtle characterization full of humor, and "Love on Toast," a delightful melange of wit, slapstick and romance, with John Payne and Stella Adler, co-bill at present on the screen at West Coast theater.

"Candid Camera" also is on the same program. Of "First Lady," it was said, "Yardage out of a new bolt, sap from a fur tree, entertainment of a rare and sheepy humor, and a distinguished from comic kind is neatly packaged and handed to the exhibitor here." The picture is of backstage Washington as the better columnist paint it. George S. Kaufman wrote the story. Hair-trigger repartee is contained in the film. Preston Foster, Anita Louise, Walter Connolly and a host of other top film players are in the cast.

I over my fear of doorbells. When I first came to this town, I was dead broke—living on my nerve. . . . Whenever my doorbell rang, I went through all the agonies of a prisoner at a bar of justice. It might be good news—it might be a tough bill collector. I've never been able to shake the complex.

Basil Rathbone has been trying to rise in the world. He is tired of playing black-hearted villains, wants to be an admirable character for a change. Once or twice, recently, he has succeeded—and each time with a laughable result. His fans disapprove of his reformation. Today he showed me a letter from a fan club in Chicago, signed by the entire membership. "Dear Mr. Rathbone," it read, "You're the man we love to hate. Please don't go pure on us after all these years!"

Five years ago, Irene Dunne, a passable—but certainly not an expert—golfer, shot a hole in one. Of course it was an accident—holes-in-one, even though she has Bobby Jones, are. But her publicity scribe swooned with joy and rushed out a storm of stories. And ever since then, whenever a studio publicity man is stuck for a blurb about Irene—which is often, for she is notoriously poor—"copy" he invariably has her shoot another hole-in-one. Today I met her on the golf course and congratulated her on her third miracle just announced by Columbia. "Jimmie," said she, very seriously, "it's amazing what a good publicity man can do for your game!"

"LIFE OF EMILE ZOLA" IS THE FINE FILM OFFERING

For the first time, Emile Zola, immortal novelist of France, reaches the films, when "The Life of Emile Zola" is screened beginning tomorrow at the Broadway with Paul Muni taking the part of Zola and showing tremendous ability.

"Lancer Spy," suspenseful espionage drama, with Peter Lorre, Dolores Del Rio and George Sanders, and an "Our Gang" comedy, also are on the program.

There is strong temptation to compare Muni's work in "The Life of Emile Zola" with that he did in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which won him the Motion Picture

JANE WITHERS 'GOES IMPISH' AGAIN IN NEW WALKER'S BILL

Impish Jane Withers has 45 fathers and goes into 450 jams in the "flicker" comedy, "45 Fathers," opening tomorrow at Walker's theater. Monday afternoon and evening only. Vera Getty and her Kiddies Revue, also will be on the program.

Thomas Beck, Louise Henry, the inimitable Hartmans, eccentric ventriloquists and Broadway satirists of the dance, and other screen notables are featured in "45 Fathers." In the picture, a group of millionaires draws lots to determine "which lucky man is going to have his life brightened by this sweet little girl?" and then shout for help as Jane starts trouble.

Second feature is "Charlie Chan on Broadway," with Warner Oland again playing the keen, Oriental sleuth, in a mystery murder story. Louise Henry also takes a leading part in the second as well as the first picture. Other players include Keye Luke, Harold Huber, J. Edward Bromberg, Joan Marsh, Donald Woods and Douglas Fowley. "Gifts from Air," color cartoon, and latest news are added attractions.

Miss Getty will present 67 Orange county children in her two shows Monday. It is known as a Christmas Revue.

'Marihuana' Is Powerful Drama Now Screening

Depicting vividly and daringly, the evils of one of the greatest of crime creators, dope, "Marihuana," road show film, is now screening at the Princess theater.

How a puff of smoke from this poisonous weed, marihuana, may change the lives of men, women or children, almost overnight, is told in this powerful drama.

Comedians Share Bill With "Moto"

Featuring Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver and Billy Gilbert, "Rosalia," which opens a screen run at the West Coast beginning Thursday, is devised wholly for entertainment purposes.

"Thank You, Mr. Moto," with Peter Lorre in the leading role, is devised for mystifying purposes. "Rosalia," tuneful, romantic extravaganza, has a smatter, sometimes considerably more than a smatter, of many amusing, decorative and otherwise beguiling elements in its meanderings from the American football field, West Point Military academy and Vassar campus to the place of a mythical kingdom to round out the boy meets and wins girl idea.

In "Thank You, Mr. Moto," Mr. Moto finds himself in China, deeply concerned with finding of a famous and valuable Chinese scroll which holds the secret of the lost treasure of Ghengis Kahn.

ARLISS HEADS WALKER'S BILL

"Dr. Sin," starring the famous George Arliss, and "Breakfast for Two," with Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall co-starred for the first time, make up the double bill for Walker's screen next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

"March of Time" No. 4 and world news also are offered. The study of heart disease, Alaska salmon competition with Japan and Britain's fantastic football gambling pools in which $100,000 changes hands yearly with betting odds at 14,000,000 to one.

Miss Stanwyck and Marshall are supported in "Breakfast for Two," by a quartet of fun-makers, Eric Blore, Glenda Farrell, Donald Meek and Etienne Girardot. The sparkling comedy-romance deals in efforts to make a man out of a charming idler. "Romance of Radium" also is offered.

'WOMEN MEN MARRY' ENDS

The M-G-M newspaper picture, "The Women Men Marry," written by one-time newspaperman, Michael Pessier, and featuring George Murphy and Josephine Hutchinson, shows for the last time tonight at Walker's theater. SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1937

Hospitality Is Expressed At Christmas Tea

In continuing her annual custom of entertaining at a tea-musical event of the Christmas season, Mrs. Lyman Farwell of Los Angeles, yesterday was joined in hostess duties by her two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Lyman Howes Farwell (Katherine Swales) of this city, and Mrs. Byron Farwell.

Between three and four hundred invitations were issued for this function with more than half a hundred Santa Ana friends included. The beautiful Farwell home on Lorraine boulevard glowed with the season's colorful charm. In the entrance hall, a glittering tree expressed welcome to arriving guests, and nearby was arranged a creche of tender beauty.

In the big drawing room, was another tree to glow in harmony with the wintry effect of the mantel, laden with pine cones and boughs of evergreens amidst which tall red tapers sparkled. But perhaps the most striking effect was found in the dining-room where the tea table, with its handsome silver service, its bowl of flaming red roses and matching tapers in silver candlesticks, was in harmony with surrounding appointments. But most arresting of all, was the glow of the ceiling above. For the late Lyman Farwell was an artist of wide repute, and he had painted the striking scene of fruits that set the ceiling apart from the ordinary. Lights were so directed as to illumine this charming scene, to the pleasure of the guests.

Mrs. Farwell received in a gown of royal blue velvet with real lace. Mrs. Lyman Howes Farwell chose satin-back crepe in duobonnet shade, and Mrs. Byron Farwell was in black taffeta. All three wore gardenias.

Music was continuous throughout the at home hours, and featured chamber music selections played by a string trio. Assistance was lent the hostesses by various of their friends, who preside at the silver tea urns at different intervals during the afternoon. Aiding in this capacity were Mrs. Leonard G. Swales, mother of Mrs. Lyman Howes Farwell, and Mrs. Kingsley Tuttle of this city. Mrs. Swales wore chiffon velvet in amethyst shades, and Mrs. Tuttle chose a graceful gown of filmy black net.

During exchange of Christmas gifts, the hostess' young brother, Bill McBurney, acted as Santa Claus. Ice cream roll of Christmas tree design was served with cake and coffee. Holiday theme prevailed in decorations at the card tables.

Barn Is Scene
Of Community
Players Party

Emerging from its shabbiness like a veritable Cinderella, The Barn on Mabury street last night donned its festive Yule attire of coteoneaster syrays and innumerable scarlet tapers, to welcome that big event in Community Players' year, the annual Christmas party.

A record crowd was attracted by this gayety, with scores of new members greeted by those veterans who have worked and struggled since the very beginnings of the association more than 15 years ago. For entertainment they laughed through two amusing one acts, listened with reverence to music of appealing beauty, joined with the eagerness of children in greeting Santa Claus and examining their tops, and finally enjoyed with gusto the delicious little pumpkin and mince tarts served with coffee.

Mrs. Malcolm Macurda had arranged the decorations with the assistance of volunteer aides. Mrs. Esther Rounds Moore was in charge of refreshments, and Mrs. Frank Was planned the program. This was introduced by three gifted junior players, Miss Betty Jo Willis, Miss Betty Carlson and Dick Gardner in a one-act comedy. The clever work of the three kept The Barn echoing with laughter, and all three were called back to receive the applause of the crowd.

Edward H. Burns, always active in his interest in the host association, expressed the very spirit of the season with his "cells" numbers, "Dedication" by David Popper, and "Elegie" (Massenet). Mrs. Ralph Gordon (Esther Vogt) was his accompanist, and was as striking in her appearance as in her music, saving chosen a crisp taffeta frock in holly red.

Prefacing the second one-act of the program, Mrs. Was called attention to the one-act playwriting contest, for which entries must be submitted by January 6, the next Barn meeting. She is chairman of the committee and had written "Three No Trump," the amusing playlet, as an example of the trials in store for the amateur playwright.

Roles were taken by Gertrude Horn (Mrs. Robert Horn), Helen Wissemann, Betty Jo Willis and Robert Horn, and again The Barn rang with continuous laughter. Gladys Simpson Shaffer, Players' director, had aided both casts in preparations for the program.

Synthetic sleigh bells heralded the arrival of a synthetic Santa Claus, but no complaints were registered as to the capable manner in which a post Players' president, Harry L. Hanson, portrayed the jolly old saint, nor in the quality of the gifts he handed out. Later these toys will carry a message of joy to little needy children.

Mrs. Morse was among the highly complimented hostesses, for she had herself prepared the delectable little tarts and brewed the coffee which added the final pleasant touch to The Barn Christmas. Other members of the evening's committee aided in serving from a candlelighted, holly-strewn table.

Country Home is Scene
Of Two Affairs
In One Day

Mr. and Mrs. Don Park's pretty new home at Orange Park Acres was scene of holiday festivities Thursday, with members of a bridge club enjoying luncheon at noon and a group of young couples taking part in a dinner event that evening.

A snow scene, complete with evergreens and a silver reindeer, centered each table for the noon day event. This was a white elephant party, and merriment prevailed during the afternoon of cards. Mrs. Thoburn White, who scored high, also received galloping prize.

Present with Mrs. Park were Mesdames Thoburn White, Roscoe Conklin, James McCalla, James Workman, Edward Lee Russell, E. J. Herschler, J. H. Ebersole, Glenn Mathis, John Lucy Taylor, Chester Horton, Jack Hanna, Newell Moore.

Cribaro Home
Is Opened To Dinner Group

Summing up the pleasures of their associations over a period of a dozen or more years, Amistad club members especially enjoyed as a gesture of Yuletide hospitality, the formal dinner party at which Mrs. Richard Cribaro has hosted this week in her home, 439 South Symmore street.

Mrs. Cribaro has made this dinner party an annual event, and each year introduces some definite color scheme to which all her Christmas decorations conform. This year she resumed the always appropriate hues of the holly berry, and her whole home glowed with Yule reds.

The table where turkey dinner was served, was spread with a handsome banquet cloth of Italian linen and lace, and centered with flaming poinsettias encircled by scarlet tapers. From each chair was dangling a red tassel stocking with place card attached. Amusing dolls peeping from the stockings, were fashioned from such utilitarian articles as dish mops, wooden spoons and tea towels.

Returning to the living room after the dinner hour, guests especially enjoyed the Nativity Scene arranged on the mantel. Nearby stood the snowy tree glittering with scarlet ornaments and lights, and heavily laden with packages for the gift exchange. There were amusing as well as dainty presents, and every member of the group had taken part in selecting one especially entertaining gift for Mrs. Frank Was. This was a full costume of the mid-Victorian era, from the prim undergarments to toque and wrap. Despite the insistence of the guests, Mrs. Was refused to replace the formal gown of royal blue chiffon velvet she was wearing, with the garments of an earlier day, despite her delight in the gift.

All the guests were in formal attire for the party, the hostess choosing a smart dinner gown of holly-red taffeta. Her guests included with her mother, Mrs. G. E. Bruns, Mrs. George Munro, Mrs. Frank Was, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. Charles Bressler, Mrs. George Bond, Mrs. Ira Kroese, Mrs. John McAuley, Mrs. Rose Havelly and Mrs. Charles C. Fuller.

Mrs. Thompson Plans
Enjoyable Evening
On Yule Theme

One of the pleasant annual events of holiday week for members of the first floor staff of the Rankin Drygoods company, is the party tendered them by Mrs. Mary Thompson, the buyer for that floor. This year's courtesy was planned by Mrs. Thompson as an event of Thursday night when she received in her home, 710 South Lyon street. Coteoneaster and holly sprays wreathed the home with its scarlet candles, and its cheerful Christmas tree. An amusing game was introduced by the hostess, who had chosen gay little prizes claimed in triumph by Miss Evelyn Scherbert, Mrs. Ella Faupel and Mrs. Lucille McAdoo.

This was only a small part of the spirit of giving however, for not only was there an exchange of pretty presents, but the hostess had chosen the daintiest of silken slips with lace medallions for each of her guests, and was delighted in turn when they presented her with several pieces of silver for the table ware she is assembling. The serving of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, candy, nuts and coffee brought the enjoyable evening to a close for the hostess and her guests, the Misses Donna Hill, Evelyn Morrison, Marian Johnson, Evelyn Scherbert, Margaret Bowman, Dorothy Akers, Mesdames Anna Jacque, Ella Faupel, Marian Hill, Helen Jobst, Lucille McAdoo, Jane Yoder, Ethel D. Hedrick, Jane Ranney, Jeannette Nelson and Clarice Wacker.

The Mixing Bowl

By ANN MEREDITH

We are indebted to a contributor for this hair rinse. I quote directions verbatim:

"Here's a very inexpensive hair rinse which makes every hair on your head shine like a new dollar. Take a handful of blossoms from the little dog fennel plant which grows in most back yards and re-semble a small daisy with white petals and yellow center. Cover blossoms with boiling water and steep as for tea, strain and add liquid to last rinse water. Blossoms may be gathered and dried for winter use."

I was so interested I went to a chemist to know why these flowers would act this way in a hair rinse, and he told me that there was a small amount of oil in the flowers and an organic acid which resembles tannic acid. English mothers keep their blonde children golden-haired by the use of camomile blossom tea. The dog fennel is now out of blossom but dried camomile flowers can be bought at drug stores and used in place of them. They belong to identical families, I am told.

Luncheon

Hamburger cakes, 2 pan-broiled
Dish of hot canned tomato

Fish or roast may not be suitable when the family is small. Chops or chopped round steak or minute steaks may replace the meat on menu. String Beans: empty a can of string beans and liquid into a kettle, add a teaspoon of sugar and a big clove of garlic, scald, drain, remove garlic, and season lightly with butter, salt and pepper.

ORANGE, Dec. 18.—Nearly 250 members of the American Legion post and auxiliary and the families of members shared a Christmas party at the clubhouse Friday night. Tables were decorated with small Christmas trees topped with lighted tapers and red sleds fashioned of candies were placed between the trees. Red and green streamers furthered the Yuletide motif.

Mrs. Flora Fairbairn headed the hostess committee and Mrs. Marion Bickford acted as toastmaster, extending the welcome to those present. Ewald Wegner, commander of the post, made the response on behalf of the post members. Mrs. Wegner headed the committee on decorations. Cottonaster and poinsettias were used about the rooms and on the stage where a neon sign flashed off and on conveying a merry Christmas to the guests. A beautiful Christmas tree held gifts for each person present and candy for the children.

A program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Bickford and those taking part were Marilyn Bryant, Sally Joost, Emily Joost, Richard Carlson, Lila Bickford, Joyce Steele, Lee Frankum and Earl Rowland. At the close of the evening the clubhouse was darkened and the guests were treated to the lighted tapers on the trees which Rex Parks sang "Silent Night."

GRADE PUPILS IN CHRISTMAS AFFAIR

Minnie Mouse, Noreen Miller; Mickey Mouse, John Taylor; Walking Doll, Marilyn Hughes; Dancing Doll, Greta Perry; Dutch Doll, Betty Taylor; Japanese Doll, Kiki Murakami; toy soldiers, Eldon Rannels, Roger Marshburn, Bobbie Harris, Eugene Cason and Henry Robles; rabbit, Shirley Ann Walker; jumping jack, Dorothy Benson; ducks, Wanda Gilmore, Patricia Owens, Betty Jo Hadley and Marjoline King; fairies, Eleanor Brown, Correne Perry, Lavon Gribble, Marion Armstrong, Wilma Odum, Barbara Kennedy and Nancy Taylor.

Boys' and girls' choral groups presented numbers.

Our Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

MOTHER'S HELPER

Many mothers have to work outside the home; all mothers have to work inside it. Those who work outside have to have a helper who looks after the children, and the helper always complicates things. It just can't be helped. Nobody is quite like anybody else, and it would be unreasonable to expect that the helper would be just like mother, think like her, or behave like her. The mother has to accept that fact and adjust herself, and help to adjust the child to it.

After finding the best person available the mother must teach the child to accept the substitute, obey her, and cooperate with her. It won't do to listen to a string of childish complaints, take sides with the child against the helper, and expect any degree of peace thereafter. If the helper is not the right sort the answer is easy. If she is, the way is set. The child must give cheerful cooperation, learn to do his share toward lightening the home difficulties. Once the helper has been accepted as a permanent member of the family she must be sustained in her position of leadership and authority.

Sometimes an elderly relative takes the position. Grandmother or aunt step into the vacant place. Maybe age and infirmity are manifested in disposition and action. If that is so, and friction between the guardian and the children results, at a set time, he or she must be let out of the picture. If it is all possible, teach the children that grandma, or auntie, is not very well, that she needs help and kindness from them. That will be a far better way of solving the difficulty than the common one of criticizing the guardian in the presence of the children.

Don't make the mistake of saying, "They're perfectly good when I am with them." Maybe they are. They are likely to be if your presence is rare, or if it means indulgences not possible under ordinary conditions.

Don't upset any schedule that the guardian has established. She has done this in the face of heavy odds, for the child's sake. It is no easy matter to train a child to eat at a set time, to go to bed by the clock, or to do any of the uninteresting, but essential, chores that present themselves to children. Don't make your home-coming a signal for a general let-down of discipline.

This holds good for homecoming fathers, too; for anybody who returns to meet children who have been under the care of another for a day or a year. Don't break routine. Bedtime stays at the tick of the clock, baths likewise. Dicks are respected and no treats are in order except for special holidays, and this includes birthdays of course.

The helper, the one in personal control of the children, has to be sustained by the other members of the family or the children will suffer a bad bringing-up, and the helper will cease to help. Get the best available helper. Then support him in spirit and in action.

Mr. Patri has prepared a special booklet (No. 301) entitled, "Obedience," in which he tells parents how to cope with the difficult problems of disobedience. Send for it, enclosing ten cents. Address your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, The Bell Library, care this newspaper, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y.

DRIVE CAREFULLY - SAVE A LIFE -

MISSING THE TARGET

Slum-elimination schemes have attracted a great deal of attention and public support in the last few years, but they do seem to possess one flaw which, unless someone finds a way around it, will nullify most of the good they do.

The flaw readily becomes visible in one of the housing projects recently completed in Cleveland. In this project some dozen blocks or so of ruinous old shacks were demolished and replaced by modern apartments. These apartments are now occupied by tenants. But, only a few of the tenants are people who lived in the old shacks before the project was started.

Most of those slum-dwellers simply could not afford to pay the rent required in the new apartments. These people, obviously, are no better off than they were before. And a slum-elimination project which does not take care of the slum-dwellers is not quite the sort of thing its name implies.

EXIT THE LEVIATHAN

There are at least 200,000 Americans—middle-aged men, now, a bit less slim and spry than they used to be—who will have a deep sentimental interest in the last voyage of the liner Leviathan. Many of them live right here in Santa Ana.

The mighty vessel is about to go to the boneyard. Sold to the British by the United States Lines, she is to be taken overseas and broken up, a good part of her metal, no doubt, to be used in Britain's rearmament program.

And the sentimental 200,000? They are the ex-doughboys carried to or from France on the Leviathan during the war. Then, if never before or since, the great ship justified her tremendous size. She carried more soldiers than ever sailed before on a single vessel. And while it was not precisely a pleasure trip for any of these men, there are few of them who will be able to read of the old ship's final trip without feeling at least a tiny twinge of sentiment.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC HAZARDS

Police Chief Floyd Howard is acting wisely in taking specific traffic precautions for the next two weeks. He has issued warnings to both drivers and pedestrians to watch their wheels and their steps with extraordinary care during the holidays.

People during this season of the year have their minds occupied with other things. They throw precaution to the winds in order to visit as many stores as possible in a given time. Their thoughts are on what to give little Johnny and Aunt Kate and father and son.

Always the casualty records mount on these supposedly festive occasions. More cars are in use, more travel is underway.

Let's make it a really festive occasion, one of rejoicing instead of mourning over the death of a loved one in traffic.

Let's heed the words of the announcer at the Coliseum just before the close of every big football game: "Drive carefully, give the other fellow a break."

A REAL PROSPERITY PROGRAM

The New York Herald Tribune has proposed a program for the special session of Congress that is well worth reprinting. The program includes:

1. Repeal of the Undistributed Profits tax.
2. Repeal of the Capital Gains tax.
3. Appoint committees to prepare a plan for general revision of the tax system to the end that punitive taxation be eliminated, and that all taxes be made visible so far as possible.
4. Appoint committees to search out every possible Federal economy with the purpose of balancing the budget at the earliest possible time.
5. Appoint committees to amend the Wagner Act to the end that while labor's right to organize will be safeguarded, the rights of employers and consumers likewise will be protected.
6. Go home.

The merits of this program are plain. The Undistributed Profits tax and the Capital Gains tax probably are more responsible than anything else for the market collapse, the virtual disappearance of new capital and the consequent industrial recession.

Labor strife—which has been fomented rather than curbed by the Wagner Act in its present form—is a virtually insurmountable barrier to normal industrial activity and the rapid re-employment of workers at fair wages.

The unbalanced budget is a grave national problem and there can be no orderly recovery so long as Federal out-go dwarfs Federal income.

Lastly, it would be an immense stimulant to business if Congress would take swift remedial action, pass the routine necessary bills, turn thumbs down on all crack-pot experimental legislation and then call it a day. There isn't a person in the country who isn't affected by labor troubles or by taxes which drive capital into hiding and make it impossible for private enterprise to obtain money for expansion.

Make no mistake, the country is at an economic cross roads.

The New York Herald Tribune's terse and simple program is a real prosperity program.

Private Capitalism Sets The Pace

There are many reasons why private capitalism sets the pace for state capitalism where the two exist side by side. We can sum up one important reason in a single word: LOSS.

In any kind of society it seems necessary to have some sort of "purge" for laziness, incompetence, bad judgment. Loss is the "purge" of private capitalism—loss of money and loss of jobs. The careful, conscientious, hard-working herdsman profits; the lazy, inefficient herdsman loses.

AS A NATION WE COULD DO WITHOUT PROFIT BETTER THAN WE COULD DO WITHOUT LOSS—if there were any way to separate them. With the "loss purge" constantly at work, and with workers for the state and workers for private industry living side by side, everyone is on his mettle.

LIBERALS CRITICIZE RUSSIAN CONDITIONS

A group of unofficial liberals have been studying Trotsky's charge against the Russian government and have submitted its report. The commission was headed by John Dewey, who is an educator and very much inclined to veer to the left. He is a member of the People's League for Economic Security, composed of other people commonly known as "parlor pinks."

They report, "The Russian trials signify the repudiation by a disciplined political organization, world-wide in scope and influence, of the principles of trust and justice upon which the foundations of civilization are laid. It signifies an extraordinary corruption of the idealistic heritage of the Russian Revolution."

Walter Lippmann remarks, as to whether or not the word "corruption" is properly used. He wonders whether the regime of Lenin and Trotsky was in fact based upon the principles of truth and justice and that this idealistic heritage has been destroyed by Stalin.

Lippmann also says, "My own view is that the identification in the post-war era of progressivism with the Russian scheme of things was one of those cardinal and costly errors which plunge mankind into deep and dark reaction. It has caused the leading progressives to insist on measures of alleged reform which in fact paralyze the economic foundations of free democracy."

But Russia had a planned economy just as many of the well-meaning but theoretical college professors are teaching our children to believe in. It seems just to the degree that we follow out the doctrines taught in the public schools along the Russian line, do we have more and more unemployment and does our standard of living go down.

How far will all of us have to go before these theoretical educators begin to conceive that possibly there is some connection between unemployment and restriction of private initiative and private enterprise?

HOOVER'S INCONSISTENCIES

Hoover's speech at the Economic club of Chicago Thursday night, certainly contained many contradictions and inconsistencies.

He did have a spice of humor in it, when he remarked that he liked the word "recession." He said it was no doubt easier to bear than the old English words "slump" or "depression," and that it no doubt softened the pain of falling off the roof if you call it a "recession."

He continuously condemned planned economy in favor of free enterprise and he then even proposed to regulate wages by putting a restraining order on goods into states where the minimum wages were maintained. He would establish a minimum wage by putting restrictions between states. This is the old Republican idea that tariffs are beneficial. He would even apply it between states. Then why not apply it between counties and cities and finally between individuals? Some reasoning for an ex-President!

"Get To Much"

He would take from those "who get too much" and give to the "have-nots," just as the present administration has been doing, by a graduated tax on income and inheritance.

Who does he mean "gets too much"? The man who eliminated waste and by so doing builds a factory? Would he prevent a Ford from getting too much so that he could not reduce the cost of autos?

To our mind, it was one of the most inconsistent speeches we have ever read from any prominent citizen.

BELIEFS CAUSING UNEMPLOYMENT

The primary cause of unemployment in the long run is that one man's working and producing is detrimental and prevents another man from working and producing.

That there is a limited amount of work to be done.

WISE SUGGESTION

A contributor in the Literary Digest suggests that while the government is making a survey of the unemployed, it might make a survey of all those who were formerly in business and quit because of unfair labor union conditions.

Games For The Long Winter Evenings

General Hugh S. JOHNSON Says

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In Mark Sullivan's column yesterday emphasizing the extreme Fascistic effort of the farm bill, he said:

"I think that President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace have respect and regard for at least some who hold this view about the crop control bill. If these persons should make an earnest prayer to Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace to use their influence to defer the enactment of the measure until after there is complete public understanding of it, would this be too much to ask? (Who are you talking to, Mark—two-thirds of the Trinity on Judgment Day?) Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace might reply that there has been adequate time for public understanding since the bill was introduced in the Senate on July 15th. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace (and who else?) might ask why have not those who think the bill is Nazism used the intervening five months to acquaint the public with the nature of the bill. To that, do not know what excuse we could make. In my own case, I did not read the bill thoroughly until Thanksgiving Day."

Well, I did, as Mark intimates, and came out on July 15th. On July 14th, I pointed out its principal abortion. On July 28th, I analyzed it under the caption "Nazification of Agriculture" and in that column made nearly every point Mr. Sullivan has made in his several columns since Thanksgiving. On August 6th, 10th, 12th, 17th, 25th, 26th, 28th, September 2nd—as long as Congress was in session, I kept pulling that scab. When Congress came back, I started in again and on the air on September 30th, November 17th, 23rd and 29th and December 2nd, and in my column on November 17th and 29th, I kept it up.

Of course, the whole bill is worse Nazism than Hitler ever dreamed of. Perhaps it does some little good to keep pointing that out with supporting arguments, diagrams, statistics and verbal blueprints. But Mr. Wallace approaches the problem as Santa Claus with perhaps as much as one and a half billions in his sack to pass out to any subservient farmer, who will sign on some dotted line. It would take a good lawyer to understand that contract. Not even a handful of lawyers understand the proposed law. You can't just argue away a mess of Jack and confusion like that.

As Mr. Sullivan suggests, the sane Congressmen give to their conscience is that they can vote for this unintelligible monstrosity on the ground that it will all be cleared up in conference. As sure as the sun rises, it will be cleared up principally by changing all outright compulsion into a billion dollar bribe to be paid by a sales tax on food and clothing of the poor. This will be disguised under the name of a "processing" or "tariff-adjustment" tax. Since no farmer can afford not to take it, it will be compulsion just the same.

It is by all odds the worst bill I have known after some 20 years of some slight contact with the drafting of laws. It embarks on a perfect satanism of economic and political heresies—valorization, government gambling on grain prices, dictatorial control of crop, destruction of export markets, bureaucracy and planned scarcity. It includes authority to apply almost every crack-pot and condemned Fascist theory ever advanced. It involves a federal expenditure, of the "share-or-poverty" variety, to an extent no man can foresee—possibly, with other spending in that department, a billion and a half dollars.

It is to be considered also with companion concessions forced by its sponsors into the Black-Canary Bill which authorizes, for agricultural labor, sweat-shop wages and unlimited hours, with no restriction on child labor.

It—but, oh, what's the use, Mark—what's the use? I haven't been able to yell loud enough to get anybody excited about this and I doubt if even the combined voices of Mr. Sullivan and Miss Thompson can yell loud enough to get Congress to pay any attention to them.

We, The People

By JAY FRANKLIN

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The New Deal's recent reshuffling of diplomatic appointments in Europe reflects the struggle which has been going on for years inside the state department to bring American policy into line with British desires. It reflects this struggle but does not solve it.

Roughly speaking, the struggle at present lies between the pro-Fascist and the democratic groups. The latter group includes President Roosevelt and his Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, and is headed in the field by Ambassador William C. Bullitt at Paris. Bullitt is, in fact, chief proponent of the policy which holds that Germany must be crushed and that there can be no truce with fascism. Until recently, his views were supported by Ambassador Dodd at Berlin.

Some weeks ago, there were rumors of a determined drive to force Dodd's resignation. It was reported that Joe Davies, our millionaire Ambassador at Moscow, wanted to move on to Berlin and had said that unless Dodd left the service, he—Davies—would resign. Beyond the fact that Mr. Davies is restive in his Moscow post, there is nothing to substantiate this report.

However, Mr. Dodd had made no secret of his anti-fascist opinions and was becoming increasingly persona non grata with the Nazi government. Besides which, his job was finished. He had been sent to Berlin to study the origins, philosophy and methods of the Nazis, as a competent historian, and he has completed his documentation.

To replace him by Assistant Secretary of State Hugh Wilson, as a non-committal move. Wilson is a career diplomat and, although thoroughly conservative in his point of view, does not commit our government to a more sympathetic policy in relation to Hitlerism. His appointment does mean that if our policy does become more sympathetic to Nazi aims, there will be no obstacle at Berlin in the shape of personal conviction on the part of our Ambassador.

The London post offered much greater difficulty than Berlin. Roosevelt has a warm personal liking for Ambassador Bingham and during the early days of the New Deal was convinced that Bingham could hold out against the social and other influences by which London generally assimilates our envoys to British foreign policy. Last summer, the President received a disillusionment when Mr. Bingham returned to this country to deliver a "Message to Garcia" appeal from the Foreign Office. Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt had memories of Ambassador Walter Hines Page's leg-work for Sir Edward Gray during the

AFTER-EFFECTS OF CHOREA PREVENTABLE IF PATIENT IS GIVEN THE PROPER CARE

This is the ninth in a series in which Dr. Fishbein discusses cause, effect and treatment of diseases of the nervous system.

In about one-fourth of the children with chorea, the speech is disturbed because of the difficulty of articulating during the movements. The child becomes irritable and restless, later may show carelessness, dullness, loss of memory, or inability to pay attention. There are also mild emotional disturbances.

In many instances the condition comes and disappears within six months. In the United States, seldom do cases last much beyond 12 weeks. There are cases, however, in which the twitching becomes chronic, and sometimes a habit spasm follows the twitching.

Since chorea is a condition affecting the body generally instead of just the nerves and muscles, it is customary to put these children to bed for three to six weeks. Occasionally they improve greatly with suitable baths and with drugs which help to lessen the severity of the symptoms.

From time to time various new remedies are tested in this condition, but as yet no one of them seems to be specific. In some cases the application of heat treatment has seemed to be helpful.

Certainly a child with any kind of streptococcal infection within the body demands most careful study and attention. If there are infections at the roots of the teeth or in the tonsils and the adenoids, these must be eliminated and controlled. The heart must be watched carefully because streptococcal infections there are much more serious.

During convalescence, it is important to build up the child's nutrition and reserve. This may be done by giving plenty of food, well balanced with suitable amounts of vitamins and mineral salts so that the child will have the substances necessary for the best possible growth.

In the after-care, exercise as well as rest must be regulated, and the child must have plenty of relaxation, including supervised play.

With this type of attention there is little tendency for these patients to have any permanent residues from the disease.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1937 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—A congressman called the army engineers the other day for not sticking up for their views in opposing the President's original little TVA's program.

The congressman must have quickly decided, however, that he was no magnolia grandiflora himself, as he withdrew the remark from the record when his colleagues complained about the use of such language.

The House Rivers and Harbors committee, in which the incident occurred, decided not to go into who's what around here. No investigation was considered necessary. Everyone knows the batanical layout in Washington has been thoroughly weeded during recent years until only sunflowers are left. And the identity of the acting sun is not exactly a mystery, even to those who have not yet been blistered by it.

Rarely has the situation been more conclusively shown than in the evidence before the very same house committee, to wit:

There will be found a new secret order issued by the budget bureau last Nov. 15. It supersedes the white house executive order of months earlier, which resulted in the budget bureau bottling up the report of the army engineers against the little TVA program. This new order apparently grew out of publicity resulting from the TVA bottling and moderates the censorship regulations—at least to the extent of tying a ribbon around the censorship axe.

It says no government employee, even of an independent agency created by congress may communicate with congress, even orally without first asking the budget bureau for the program of the President on the subject. Then the employee must tell congress what the President's program is. Presumably he may also express his own views, but that possibility is not dealt with specifically in the order.

This may sound like a good move to prevent congress from receiving confusing advice as to what the boss wants—and it was so intended—but anyone who values his job generally is abashed, appreciates that it is always better to want what the boss wants. It is now working that way in the case of the army engineers before the house committee, and it will continue to work that way. There is something peculiar in the soil around here which permits only sunflowers to thrive, and then only when they continue to follow the sun.

Noisy floor demonstrations in congress lately are only minor hints of the extent of disorder inside. The leadership has rarely been so hard pressed as on the farm and wage-hour bills. Senate leader times in one day; house leader

Bayburn 6 times, imploring the blocs and groups to be reasonable. Their best speeches, however, were reserved for the anterooms where congressmen frankly warned they were losing face with the country.

The prospect of adjourning for Christmas without finally passing anything except their own allowance was appalling.

The Alfred Sloan endowment of $10,000,000 to search out economic truths was announced only a few days back, but was really inaugurated almost a year ago. Several unmentioned allocations have been made to economic departments of colleges for specific studies. The endowment organization has not yet disclosed its intentions, but will probably continue to make allocations to educational institutions, rather than set up a research organization of its own.

Probably no announcement would have been made at all, were it not for fear of SEC prying into transfers of General Motors stock involved.

Democratic senators are shying away from Republican efforts to hook them in a formal coalition. Talk of such a thing is being fostered only by the democratic unilaterally or unwise. Senators, who have been around a bit, know politics is not played that way. Conservatives Democrats and Republicans will continue to coalesce on many legislative issues, but it will be wholly informal, and the list of the coalescers will change on each issue.

Liquor lawyers have pulled forth from their legal corkscrews and are working on alcohol administrator Alexander. He is always annoying them; lately has issued a timely Christmas sneer at the misleading being done on a larger bottle. From Alexander they are stirring this time you may think a murder is nigh, or at least a resignation; however, nothing will happen, except the labels will be corrected.

Everyone in both houses now realizes the two farm bills which have been passed are impractical, that the legislation will be rewritten in conference, as originally planned. The views of House Chairman Jones and Agriculture Secretary Wallace are expected to be most influential.

It will not get out officially but it is a matter of record that Ambassador to Russia Joe Davies has been docked 139 days pay since January 19 when he took

The law allows ambassadors only 60 days leave with pay, and it seems Mr. Davies had been absent from his post 199 days and had worked only 111 days, when the last official count was made.

beset an American diplomat at the Court of St. James', and his general economic and social point of view can scarcely be more conservative than that of Judge Bingham.

On the whole, the shifts do not spell any material change in foreign policy. A critic of Fascism, whose diplomatic indiscretions were as famous as they were honorable, has been removed from Berlin to make room for a career-diplomat who is not expected to hold strong convictions on any subject. An air-conditioned ambassador has been removed from London, to make room for one of the administration's toughest hatchet-men. At the same time, the home front has been strengthened by the action of Undersecretary of State Welles—long unfairly regarded as leader of state department conservatism—in making a speech warning against the extension of Fascist propaganda to the Western Hemisphere.
